13TH YEAR. NO. 240.

EAST LIVERPOOL, O., MONDAY, MARCH 21, 1898.

TWO CENTS

CONGRESS IN EARNEST

Action on Cuba Expected This Week.

PRESIDENT MAY RECOMMEND IT.

If Not, the House May Demand an Expression of the Administration's Attitude—Naval Report May Be Submitted—Senate Might Then Act.

WASHINGTON, March 21.—Whether the report of the naval board of inquiry on the Maine disaster goes to congress this week with a special message from the president calling for congressional action, our relations with Spain and the proximity of war, as viewed from the standpoint of the emergency preparations now going on to place the country in a state of defense, probably will be exhaustively debated in the house in connection with the naval appropriation bill, the consideration of which will begin tomorrow. The many emergency items in the bill, the large increase in the enlisted force, the liberal provision for battleships, torpedoboats and drydocks will bring the whole subject of the necessity for these preparations directly before the house.

While the conservative leaders doubtless will seek to prevent inflammatory expressions the leaders, except by their example, probably will be unable to repress sensational speeches. An effort is likely upon the part of the radicals to force from those in the confidence of the administration a declaration of the policy of the administration regarding Cuba. This they hope to do by taunting them with some of the rumors which have been floating about in the newspapers during the past few days. It is altogether likely that there will be a general expression of the sentiment of the house on this question before the bill is passed. Should the president transmit the report of the board of inquiry with a request for congressional action during the week everything else will give way to it.

A number of bills, among them the Hawaiian matter, are expected to come up in the senate, but all plans are liable to be changed if the report of the court of inquiry into the Maine disaster should be received. The receipt of this document would inevitably have the effect of springing a Cuban debate, which would sidetrack all other questions.

A FUND FOR SPAIN'S NAVY.

One Raised by an Entertainment in Havana—The Relief Work.

HAVANA, March 21.—Little work was done on the wreck of the Maine Sunday by the divers or contractors. The city has been quiet after the festivities of Saturday night. At the Tacon theater, a dramatic representation was given in aid of the fund for the Spanish navy. There was plenty of enthusiasm in the crowded theater. Every patriotic sentiment was cheered to the echo, but there were no sensational features. The proceeds are not all in yet, but it is believed that they will amount to between $30,000 and $40,000 in gold.

The American cruiser Iowa, which left for New York Saturday evening, is not expected to reach her destination for a week or two, as she is slow, even with auxiliary sail power.

The food on hand will afford relief to all the needy in the island for a week or more, and additional supplies are afloat. Relief has been sent to 134 Central points, from which 462 towns and villages have been supplied.

Special Commissioner Klopsch has appointed three men to travel constantly through the island to verify the count of the needy, to see that the supplies are properly received and hauled, to prevent fraud and generally to assist in the work of distribution. The latest total reported to Mr. Klopsch is 205,000 necessitous cases.

THREE MAINE OFFICERS.

They Held Long Conferences at the Navy Department and White House.

WASHINGTON, March 21.—Three officers of the Maine, Lieutenant G. F. W. Holman, George P. Blow and Lieutenant A. W. Catlin of the marine corps, accompanied by Boatswain Larkins, came on unexpectedly from Key West Saturday. It was said their visit was purely voluntary on their part, as they are now on waiting orders and are free to go where they please. They had long conferences at the navy department and later at the White House.

Their talks were confined entirely to graphic narratives of their experiences on the night of the explosion. In the course of the narratives, however, individual opinion as to the cause of the explosion found expression. These opinions, as already stated, were purely personal and not founded on the proceedings of the court of inquiry. These personal opinions, however, it was learned reliably, were strongly favorable to the theory of an external cause leading to the destruction of the Maine.

A PATRIOTIC JEWISH RABBI.

Communicated to the President as to How He Can Serve His Country.

PHILADELPHIA, March 21.—In his address before the Reform Congregation

Keneseth Israel on the weekly Scripture lesson, Rabbi J. Leonard Levy argued against this country annexing any new territory. He condemned war and said: "We may have faith in the leaders of the nation in the present crisis that they will do all in their power to avert war and its dreadful consequences. But, if war is found inevitable, then every loyal citizen should do his duty. Believing this, I am communicating with President McKinley and Governor Hastings seeking their counsel how I, as an humble citizen, can best serve my country in these perilous times, and I hope, in my community, there will be many others willing to do true, faithful and loyal citizens' duty in the present juncture and in whatever emergency may arise."

Brought Powder For the Government.

NEW YORK, March 21.—The Norwegian steamer Nordkyn, from Hamburg, brought 25 tons of smokeless gun powder for the United States government.

APPROACHING A CRISIS.

Naval Report Expected Tonight—Busy War Preparations—Both Nations More Excited—Strong Facts.

WASHINGTON, March 21.—Information has been received here that the report of the Maine board of inquiry had been started from Key West Saturday night. Whether it comes by mail or by special messenger is the question. The heads of the war and navy departments and President McKinley were extremely busy Sunday considering the preparations for war and the forecast of the Maine report, which, it can safely be asserted, has been received by the navy department.

But little attempt is now made to disguise the real situation. Even the most ardent peace advocates now gravely wag their heads and declare they do not see how trouble can be averted.

All schemes providing for handling of the country's honor in the spirit of unchristian forbearance have fallen to the ground. For that reason there will be no adjournment of congress before the pending difficulty is adjusted.

There will be no forcing of Spanish autonomy upon Cuba by the United States. There will be no purchasing of Cuba by this country. There will be no guaranteeing of bonds by either this country or the Cuban republic when the unfortunate island becomes independent.

All the artful projects sidetracking the Maine disaster and making the general Cuban question paramount have failed. All of Spain's schemes to circumvent us through the wiles of diplomacy have been unsuccessful.

The United States is now on the verge of a crisis, for the temper of the Spanish people is unmistakable, and the Sagasta ministry, it is believed, will not dare concede what we are certain to demand.

The reports received at the state department from Minister Woodford and Consul General Lee strongly indicate that the anti-American feeling is on the increase in Havana and Madrid.

As the Maine report, which is expected here tonight, approaches its destination the feeling steadily arises even in this tranquil city.

The report will consist of two sections—the testimony that has been taken and the conclusions of the court of inquiry. The latter, it may be said, will be calm, dispassionate and based entirely upon the facts that have been secured.

It will also contain a formal opinion as to the cause of the explosion.

From the fact that the side plates were pushed up, the keel entirely destroyed and the bottom plates on the deck, and from the further fact that a sailor at work within three feet of the keel was blown up in the air, landed on the deck aft and from there fell into the water, it will be shown that the explosion came from the outside.

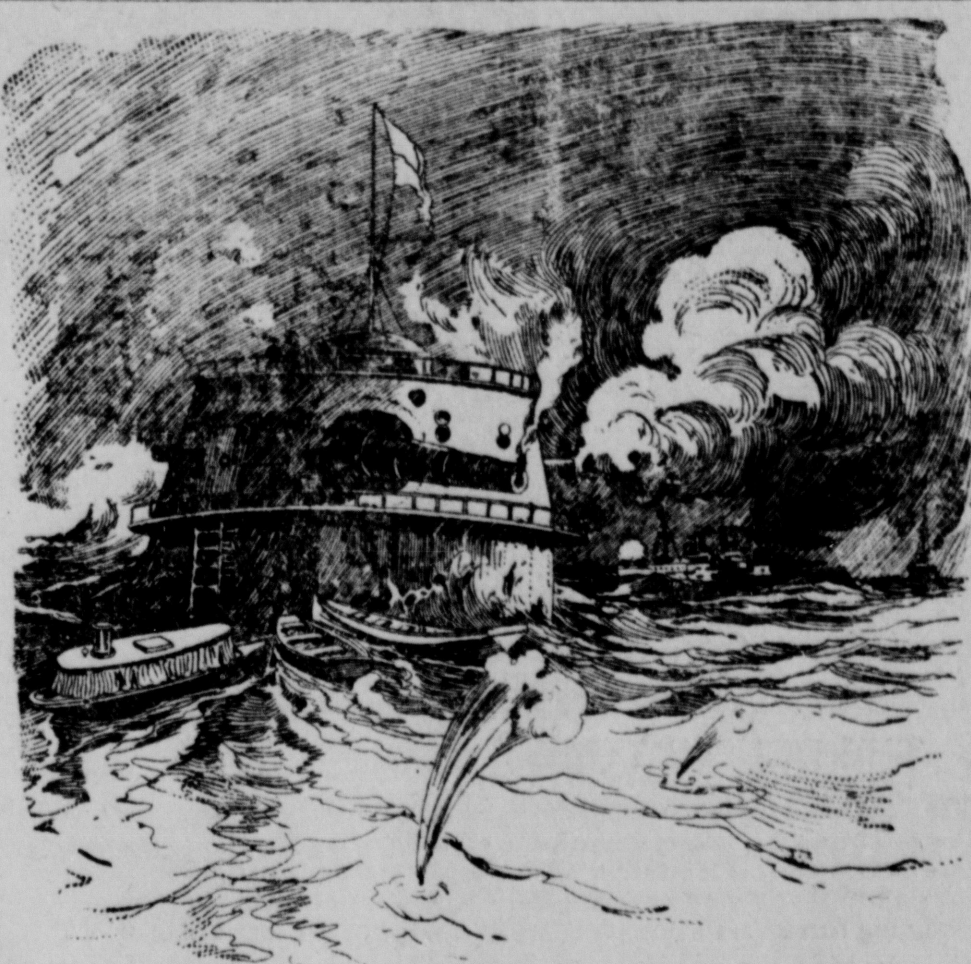

LONG CONFERENCE

AT WHITE HOUSE.

President, Some Cabinet Officers and Mr. Flint Talked For Two Hours on Sunday.

WASHINGTON, March 21.—President McKinley did not attend church Sunday morning as is his custom, but instead spent two hours and more in conference with several members of the cabinet. Assistant Secretary Day called at 10:30 o'clock and remained until nearly 1. Secretary Long and Secretary Bliss were the other members present. They remained less than an hour. Commander Clover in company with Mr. Flint, who has been acting for the government in the negotiations for the purchase of ships, also called and were shown into the president's private office. The members of the cabinet on leaving the White House said that there was no special significance in the meeting.

The report of the Maine court of inquiry had not been received nor was it definitely known when it would reach here. It was expected, however, early in the present week, and as soon as received it would be handed at once to the president, and when it had been read and considered by the president it would be made public. Secretary Long, in speaking of the report, said that while fully realizing its importance, the country, in his opinion, would willingly accord to the president a day or two if necessary for its consideration. The indications seem to be that the report will be made public by the middle of the present week.

REVOLVING TURRET FOR COAST DEFENSE.

Several of these revolving turrets, armed with mammoth guns, are to be placed upon Romer shoal, New York harbor, for the defense of the metropolis.

Mr. Flint, whose commercial interests are largely with South American countries, is believed, in a measure at least, to represent Chile and the Argentine republic in any negotiations which are under way for the disposition of their war vessels. A reporter asked Mr. Flint if he could say whether or not the United States had secured possession of the Chilean warship O'Higgins and the Argentine republic ship San Martino, but declined to say. When pressed for some information he replied:

"Both Chile and the Argentine republic have the warmest friendship and admiration for the United States and her institutions. Neither country is anxious to sell their ships to this government, basing this indisposition on the belief that we have an excellent navy of our own. They want these vessels themselves. If the time should come, however, when it was apparent that the United States needed these vessels they would gladly part with them to us."

The attention of Mr. Flint was called to the published report that the United States would purchase the Brazilian torpedo gunboat Tubi, but this he said would not be done, so far as he was aware, as there were no negotiations under way to that effect.

Busy on War Work.

BETHLEHEM, Pa., March 21.—The Bethlehem Iron company's ordnance works were working Sunday for the first Sunday in the company's history. Work on guns, carriages and armor for the government was under way. The plant is running day and night and over 2,000 men are busy.

DEFENSE OF PENSACOLA.

Guns and Ammunition Arrive—Deepening the Channel.

PENSACOLA, Fla., March 21.—Powder, shot and shell continue to arrive here in large quantities for the forts and batteries defending the harbor. Three of the eight big mortars for the new battery on Santa Rosa island have also arrived and they will be mounted as quickly as possible. There is great activity at Fort Pickens. In addition to the 6 and 8-inch rifle guns a 15-inch gun is being mounted on the fort.

Captain J. W. MacMurray, commanding the two batteries of the Fourth artillery at Fort Barrancas, has been promoted to be major of the Fifth artillery. The work of deepening and widening the new channel on the bar is progressing steadily, and the largest merchant steamships now pass through it without difficulty. It is expected that 48 feet of water will soon be obtained.

NAME TO BE NEW ORLEANS.

New Cruiser Amazonas Will Be Rechristened at Once.

WASHINGTON, March 21.—Secretary Long has determined to rechristen the new American cruiser Amazonas the New Orleans, in honor of the principal city of Louisiana. No determination has been reached as to the name to be given either the Abreul or the Mayflower.

The Abreul will not be completed before Dec. 1. It is believed, however, that Prescott stands an excellent chance of being honored by the secretary calling the new cruiser after it. The president will be consulted this week and the Mayflower probably christened after some naval man of prominence.

The Weather.

Generally fair, but partly cloudy; light southeasterly winds.

A CARLIST UPRISING.

One Threatened Against the Spanish Throne.

DON JAIME MAY GO TO SPAIN.

Reported That the Son of Don Carlos Will Receive the Carlist Deputies and Then Enter the Country—Futile Denials of Lee Matter.

NEW YORK, March 21.—Correspondence received by mail from Madrid, under date of March 1, says:

Don Jaime de Bourbon, who is at present at Cannes, staying at the villa Henry IV, will shortly receive the Spanish Carlist deputies. Afterward he will proceed to Spain, where he will declare himself Hara acto de (pretender.) Commenting on the above telegram received from Paris, through their special correspondent, The Herald remarks that it will say nothing to augment the gravity of this news. It then says:

"The fact that our correspondent makes no hesitation as to the accuracy of his information forces us to believe that he considers it the correct reflection of Carlist views, more especially if we bear in mind that the Carlist organ in Madrid, El Correo Espanol, has during the last few days accentuated the threats it has been lavishing for months past.

"Nevertheless, it would not be wise to take for granted that Don Carlos de Bourbon has decided to surrender his pretended claims to his son, Don Jaime, in whom the Carlist enthusiasts place their hopes.

"Although it is certain that many wish again to set civil war ablaze without regard to the agonized state of the country, such criminal intention will find no echo in the country, not even within those circles of traditionalism which still follow Don Carlos."

The Liberal and The Globe say Carlists deny that Don Jaime is coming.

The Correo publishes a manifesto to the Carlists, urging them to do all in their power at the approaching elections to return Carlist candidates as the only party which has clean hands in the late disgraceful humiliations of Spain, and as being the only party which can restore to Spain her ancient honor and glory. The document is signed by Marquis de Corralbo.

The Madrid press, with few exceptions, has during the past few days been trying to convince the public that there was never any question of General Fitzhugh Lee's recall from Havana. The facts in the case, however, are exactly as cabled in these dispatches.

Senor Sagasta, in conversation with General Woodford, did suggest that friendship and good will between the two countries would be promoted were General Lee to be recalled, and, after consulting his government, General Woodford did inform the premier that such a step could not be considered. Nothing would have been known of the affair had it not been that some one in the Spanish foreign office confided the information to the official news agency of Spain—the Fabra agency. The fact that this agency received it and that the censor allowed it to be telegraphed by them abroad is, to those familiar with methods in Madrid, conclusive evidence that it was correct. It was only when the effect this news produced in America was cabled back here and after there was a fall on the bourse that there was any question of denying its authenticity.

BLANCO WANTS PEACE.

He Advised Spain to Hold Torpedo Fleet at the Canaries.

MADRID, March 21.—Captain General Blanco, from Havana, has given proof that he is as anxious for peace as the Madrid ministry. He cabled from Havana advising the government to postpone the departure of the Spanish flying squadron of torpedoboats. He advised that it should not on any account proceed further toward the United States than the Canary islands. The order to hold the fleet there was not, however, sent wholly at General Blanco's request.

The United States government made no official representations on the subject.

But Admiral Bermejo, the minister of marine (secretary of the navy) wanted the torpedo flotilla held at the Canary islands until it could be joined by the first-class armored cruiser Infanta Maria Theresa, because the torpedo vessels and destroyers started on short notice. They were not supplied with adequate ammunition.

KEMP FOUND NOT GUILTY.

BEAVER, Pa., March 21.—The bell of the courthouse was rung at 8:25 Sunday evening to call the people together for the hearing of the jury's verdict in the Charles E. Gower murder case. All the churches were dismissed and the courtroom was crowded when the jury filed in the room and returned its verdict of "not guilty."

Henry Kemp, who had been on trial all week, was congratulated by many persons, including his attorneys. Papers will be served on Kemp for train robbery, and he will be taken back to Ohio.

SIBLEY WOULD WAGE

WAR WITH BENZINE.

He Will Suggest a Naval Plan of Harbor Defense to the Navy Department.

WASHINGTON, March 21.—Ex-Congressman Sibley of Pennsylvania has a plan for the defense of seacoast cities. He says:

"If war comes I intend to lay before the secretary of the navy a plan for the defense of our seacoast cities which, I am convinced, will prove more effective than forts, monitors, battleships or submarine mines, and which will not cost for the entire Atlantic seaboard as much as a single cruiser.

"My plan is to let loose on the waters of bays and rivers on which are situated cities threatened with attack by Spanish warships great quantities of benzine. New York could be defended in this way by the erection of immense benzine tanks on either shore of the lower bay. From these tanks big pipes could be laid any desired distance under the water. Then by the turning of a stop cock the waters of the bay could be covered with a sheet of the benzine at the approach of a hostile fleet.

"This should be done at ebb tide. As the benzine crept swiftly and silently down the bay on the ebbing tide all the roughness would disappear from the water, the crests and ridges would melt into long, easy swells and the surface would prevent one unbroken smoothness.

"But when the fleet of warships poked their defiant noses into the smooth swells there would be an awful flash, a terrific roar and swift death would overtake every living member on board the vessels. The vapors arising from the benzine flood would ignite from the fires on board the ships, and in the fierce atmosphere thus created nothing could live. In all probability the ships would be torn to pieces by the explosion more completely than was the Maine in Havana harbor.

"I don't think they can build powder and ammunition magazines so airtight that the subtle benzine vapor will not penetrate therein. If it did so penetrate nothing could save the hostile fleet from being torn apart by the ignition of all the powder and other explosives on board. In any event the crews would perish more surely than if they were suddenly thrust into airtight chambers filled with the fumes of prussic acid."

BY AN INTERNAL EXPLOSION.

A Tug Captain Believes the Maine Was So Destroyed.

NEWPORT NEWS, Va., March 21.—The wrecking tug Underwriter has arrived in port from Havana, where she went with the derrick Chief, which is assisting in the work on the Maine. Captain Wiley will again start to Havana, probably tonight, with the barge Lone Star, which is very much needed by the wreckers.

Captain Wiley believes that the Maine was destroyed through the agency of an internal explosion, although he has not examined the wreck below water.

KING FOR CONGRESS.

Those Having His Candidacy in Charge Will Make a Canvass This Week.

YOUNGSTOWN, March 21.—The committee having in charge the candidacy of Judge King for congress expects during the coming week to ascertain the extent of the opposition to Congressman R. W. Taylor for a third term in Columbia and Stark counties and also the support that will be given King. It is said that Judge Johnston will get a federal appointment, and that this will leave Mahoning county solid for Judge King in the congressional convention.

Reported That the Son of Don Carlos Will Receive the Carlist Deputies and Then Enter the Country—Futile Denials of Lee Matter.

NEW YORK, March 21.—Correspondence received by mail from Madrid, under date of March 1, says:

Don Jaime de Bourbon, who is at present at Cannes, staying at the villa Henry IV, will shortly receive the Spanish Carlist deputies. Afterward he will proceed to Spain, where he will declare himself Hara acto de (pretender.) Commenting on the above telegram received from Paris, through their special correspondent, The Herald remarks that it will say nothing to augment the gravity of this news. It then says:

"The fact that our correspondent makes no hesitation as to the accuracy of his information forces us to believe that he considers it the correct reflection of Carlist views, more especially if we bear in mind that the Carlist organ in Madrid, El Correo Espanol, has during the last few days accentuated the threats it has been lavishing for months past.

"Nevertheless, it would not be wise to take for granted that Don Carlos de Bourbon has decided to surrender his pretended claims to his son, Don Jaime, in whom the Carlist enthusiasts place their hopes.

"Although it is certain that many wish again to set civil war ablaze without regard to the agonized state of the country, such criminal intention will find no echo in the country, not even within those circles of traditionalism which still follow Don Carlos."

The Liberal and The Globe say Carlists deny that Don Jaime is coming.

The Correo publishes a manifesto to the Carlists, urging them to do all in their power at the approaching elections to return Carlist candidates as the only party which has clean hands in the late disgraceful humiliations of Spain, and as being the only party which can restore to Spain her ancient honor and glory. The document is signed by Marquis de Corralbo.

The Madrid press, with few exceptions, has during the past few days been trying to convince the public that there was never any question of General Fitzhugh Lee's recall from Havana. The facts in the case, however, are exactly as cabled in these dispatches.

Senor Sagasta, in conversation with General Woodford, did suggest that friendship and good will between the two countries would be promoted were General Lee to be recalled, and, after consulting his government, General Woodford did inform the premier that such a step could not be considered. Nothing would have been known of the affair had it not been that some one in the Spanish foreign office confided the information to the official news agency of Spain—the Fabra agency. The fact that this agency received it and that the censor allowed it to be telegraphed by them abroad is, to those familiar with methods in Madrid, conclusive evidence that it was correct. It was only when the effect this news produced in America was cabled back here and after there was a fall on the bourse that there was any question of denying its authenticity.

BLANCO WANTS PEACE.

He Advised Spain to Hold Torpedo Fleet at the Canaries.

MADRID, March 21.—Captain General Blanco, from Havana, has given proof that he is as anxious for peace as the Madrid ministry. He cabled from Havana advising the government to postpone the departure of the Spanish flying squadron of torpedo-boats. He advised that it should not on any account proceed further toward the United States than the Canary islands. The order to hold the fleet there was not, however, sent wholly at General Blanco's request.

The United States government made no official representations on the subject.

But Admiral Bermejo, the minister of marine (secretary of the navy) wanted the torpedo flotilla held at the Canary islands until it could be joined by the first-class armored cruiser Infanta Maria Theresa, because the torpedo vessels and destroyers started on short notice. They were not supplied with adequate ammunition.

BEAVER, Pa., March 21.—The bell of the courthouse was rung at 8:25 Sunday evening to the call the people together for the hearing of the jury's verdict in the Charles E. Gower murder case. All the churches were dismissed and the courtroom was crowded when the jury filed in the room and returned its verdict of "not guilty."

Henry Kemp, who had been on trial all week, was congratulated by many persons, including his attorneys. Papers will be served on Kemp for train robbery, and he will be taken back to Ohio.

LISBON ROAD WAS A TORRENT

While All the Paved Streets Were Washed Clean—The Street Railway Company Had a Hard Time of It In West End For a Time, but Soon Cleared the Road.

The big storm Saturday night caused no end of damage and inconvenience in this section.

Lisbon road was a foaming torrent and washed a vast amount of earth and rocks on the street railway at the foot of the hill. Cars could not pass, and passengers were transferred until Manager Hoefgen gathered a force of 15 men and began work on the obstruction. In an hour the track was clear.

The Cleveland & Pittsburg was not so fortunate. A large quantity of material covered the tracks near the flint mill and the evening trains were delayed several hours. The tracks were badly washed, and much work was done yesterday making repairs.

A great many cellars in the upper part of the city were flooded, and in the West End there was no little damage.
The storm was one of the fiercest in years.

ANOTHER PROPOSITION

Has Been Made to Christian Metsch by the Railroad.

It was learned Saturday night the Cleveland and Pittsburg railroad had made another proposition to Christian Metsch for the purchase of his property fronting on the railroad. Mr. Metsch was seen by a reporter and said:

"I have nothing to say about the matter. The company, I understand, is double tracking the road as fast as possible, but it can't double track all the road all the way until it buys my property." Mr. Metsch would not say anything more on the subject.

On the River.

Rains which were general at the headwaters of the Allegheny and Monongahela rivers Friday, threatened to bring the river up to the danger point yesterday afternoon. At midnight the stage was 14 feet and it was thought that the rise would stop at 18 feet, without doing any damage. The rise began in the morning.

Passed down: Clifton, Catherine
Davis, Pacific, Voyager, Hawk. Up—
Ben Hur, Keystone State, Troubadore, William G. Horner, Jim Brown and Clifton.

Not Guilty of Murder.

The witnesses from this city who testified in the Gower murder trial at Beaver last week returned to the city
Saturday night.

The jury in the case brought in a verdict of not guilty at 8:28 last evening.
Henry Kemp, who was charged with the crime was immediately arrested on a charge of train robbery.

Sudden Death.

J. M. Shive and family of Fifth street, were yesterday morning summoned to Teagarden by the sudden death of his father, Solomon Shive, a well known resident of that place.

THE DOUBLE TURRET MONITOR TERROR.

The Terror is a modern coast defense vessel of 3,990 tons displacement. Her speed is 12 knots, and she cost Uncle Sam $3,178,046. Her four big 10 inch guns are carried two in each turret. She also has eight smaller guns. In action she can sink so that her upper deck is flush with the water and her curved deck and revolving turrets are alone presented as a target. She carries a crew of 200 men.

ENGLAND OUR FRIEND.

But There Is No Fear but What We Can Handle Spain Easily Alone.
Other Countries For Dons.

LONDON, March 21.—The Daily Mail
this morning, in an editorial refuting
"some of the American accusations of British coldness," says:

"Among many reasons for Great Britain's comparative non-interest, not the least is our better knowledge of the Spaniards and their paper navy and our conviction that the Anglo-Saxon will always defeat the Latin. Indeed, the trend of British thought is toward surprise that the greatest of the republics should excite itself unduly about so poor a foe.

"The Americans should remember that, while we are full of trust in their capability to deal with Spanish impertinence, we are fully occupied with far greater troubles threatened or active in various parts of the world. They have our full sympathy at a time when France, Germany and Russia are backing Spain as fully and almost as openly as they are opposing British efforts for the freedom of foreign trade throughout the world.

"But there is no occasion now to talk of an offensive and defensive alliance.
The disproportion between our mission and America's makes one impossible.
There will be time to propose this way of recementing the race when America is ready to face the splendid responsibilities it entails."

The Flag His Nest.

TIFFIN, March 21.—When a new school house at Bunker Hill, this county, was being erected last fall, the school flag was missed and a close search failed to discover it. Saturday a half dozen youngsters chased a groundhog to his hole, and when they dug down for him they found him nestled in the much wanted stars and stripes, which had been his protection all winter.

Closed the City on Sunday.

ZANESVILLE, March 21.—Yesterday was the driest Sunday in Zanesville's history. The mayor put the police force at the disposal of the Ministerial association to close the saloons. The Liquor League not only decided to close saloons, but to see that the drugstores, meat shops, news stands, cigar stores, milk depots and confection stores were closed. This resulted in a very tight town.

Death of Stephen Y. McNair.

CLEVELAND, March 21.—Stephen Y.
McNair, secretary and auditor of the Cleveland, Akron and Columbus railroad, has died, aged 62 years. Deceased was a brother of Admiral McNair of the United States navy.

Mother Has Four Babies.

MILLERSBURG, March 21.—For the first time in the history of Holmes county four babies, all girls, were born at the home of Mr. and Mrs. McGuire at Glenmont. The quartet lived but a short time.

Recruits Shipped From Columbus.

COLUMBUS, March 21.—Eighty recruits

Jardine, from Rio Janeiro, lost one of her crew from yellow fever during the voyage to this port. She has been quarantined.

Chilean Minister Leaves.

WASHINGTON, March 21.—Senor Gana, the Chilean minister, who has been transferred to London, has presented his letters of transfer to the president and taken his leave.

Rebellion Against British Empire.

CALCUTTA, March 21.—The fighting going on in the northwest frontier is now regarded as ended. The rebels have given the 70 hostages demanded.

COURT WILL WORK THIS WEEK.

Sicard Gave Out This Statement—Preliminary Report Probably Sent.

KEY WEST, March 21.—The court of inquiry, according to Admiral Sicard, will continue its work through the coming week, as it is not yet ready to make a report on the Maine disaster.

It is impossible to say definitely whether any synopsis of the findings of the court up to date has been sent to Washington. The notion prevails here that this has been done, but no official confirmation is obtainable.

AN EXTERNAL EXPLOSION.

A Sailor Says Maine Was Wrecked From the Outside.

LONDON, March 21.—The morning papers published a long statement by Seaman Newman, recently arrived in England, who was on board the Maine
at the time of the disaster in Havana harbor.

Newman solemnly declares that the explosion was external and on the port side of the ship.

Services For Maine's Dead.

LEBANON, Pa., March 21.—Services were held here Sunday afternoon in memory of the sailors who lost their lives in the Maine disaster. Rev. J.
Warren Johnson of St. John's Reformed church delivered a eulogy.

Supplies For the Cubans.

KANSAS CITY, March 21.—A relief fund of $9,033 and 21 carloads of provisions and clothing, collected in Missouri, Kansas and Oklahoma, for the starving Cubans, has been forwarded south from Kansas City.

BANK ROBBED IN KANSAS.

Citizens Imprisoned Until the Job Was Completed.

HUTCHINSON, Kan., March 21.—The Bank of Nickerson at Nickerson, Kan., near here, has been robbed. Five men did the job, and it required four or five hours to blow open the safe.

Citizens who were passing the building were held up and forced to go inside, where they were kept until the safe was blown and the money secured.
About $5,000 was secured. The robbers mounted horses and fled.

Hard Sentence For Robbery.

OMAHA, March 21.—Judge Slabaugh of the district court sentenced Charles Hendricks to 15 years' imprisonment at hard labor for highway robbery. The prisoner held up three men, shot two and got 10 cents. He was captured by his third victim.

Convicted of Embezzlement.

GOSHEN, Ind., March 21.—Ex-County Treasurer William H. Holdeman has been convicted in the Elkhart circuit court of embezzling $22,000 of county funds, and he was committed to the penitentiary under the indeterminate sentence law.

Threw Himself Beneath the Wheels.

POTTSVILLE, Pa., March 21.—Charles Yanson, a Swede aged 35 years, deliberately committed suicide by throwing himself in front of a big car on the Schuylkill Electric railway. Despondency was the cause of the rash deed.

Suspected Swindler Arrested.

NEW YORK, March 21.—Hirsch Cople-mann, supposed to be one of the men who robbed Max Bernstein of Cleveland of $15,000 in this city last November by selling him brass filings for gold dust, has been arrested.

Getting Ready a Torpedoboot.

PHILADELPHIA, March 21.—A large force of men worked Sunday on the torpedoboot Mackenzie, which is being constructed at Hillman's shipyard.
This is the first time Sunday work has been ordered at this yard.

THERE WERE SURPRISES

When the Votes Were Counted
Saturday Night.

SOME DELAY IN EVERY PRECINCT

Midnight Was Not Far Away When the Last Report Was Placed Upon the Big Bulletin Board at the News Review—An Excellent Service.

The Republican primary election, Saturday afternoon, was notable for two reasons—the number of surprises and the hour at which the vote was counted.

When the polls opened there was the usual rush and activity. Scores of workers for the various candidates gathered about the polling places and did what they could for the men they had promised to support. As the voter approached he was besieged on every side by men with cards of some description. They thrust them into his hands, and occasionally, one more bold than his companions, slipped a little piece of printed pasteboard into the pocket of the unsuspecting citizen. They were kept beyond the imaginary line which marked the legal distance from the polls, and in the rooms where the voting took place there was no unusual disorder.

The charge was made that Democrats and other party men who had no right to a ballot had boldly walked to the box and deposited their ballots, and no one has yet appeared to deny it. Those things always happen on primary day, and last Saturday was no exception. Whether the practice was more marked than usual is a question none seem sufficiently interested to investigate.

A feature of the election upon which not even the most astute politician of the city had counted was the storm. It appeared without warning, and bursting over the city when a great many persons had not voted, doubtless kept a number from voting. Perhaps it would have influenced the result; perhaps not.
But it was certainly discussed as if it had had an important bearing on a presidential election.

The counting was slow. Precincts which usually report soon after 9 o'clock were out an hour and a half later, and in the second of the Second ward
the officials were working at 11 o'clock.
The first of that ward was as usual the first to announce its vote, and East End was reported a short time afterward.
It was almost midnight before the final figures were in the hands of those who followed the matter, but the result was known before that time.

The victory of A. V. Gilbert was a surprise to many; but a comparison of the vote shows the folly of two men, representing the temperance element of the city, endeavoring to win out when all other forces are combined on one candidate against them. The battle had been hard fought. E. A. Stevenson and John W. Wyman worked faithfully, but they split the vote which should have gone to one of them.

Another surprise was the defeat of John H. Harris; but even some of his friends almost expected it. The lying stories and insinuations had been doing their work against an honorable man, and had been doing it so long that the short campaign he conducted, spirited though it was, could not save him.

The solicitorship gave cause for additional surprise. Safe in the thought that F. E. Grosshans would be accorded the customary term, some of his friends did not look upon the candidacy of John McGarry as a serious matter until the battle was almost won. Mr. McGarry and his friends did their best, however, and as the vote shows, they were in earnest and worked with a will.

There were not many prophecies as to the school board, and the vote in that direction excited little comment, while on the other hand much interest was shown in the contest for council.
Particularly was this true of the First and Third wards. Doctor Marshall had a strong force to fight, but came down from the East End with a good start and stood well in the second precinct.
Mr. Seckerson was an easy winner, although a hard fight was made for W.
H. Deidrick.

Because so many men wanted the office the street commissioner battle attracted attention, and resulted in unusual surprises.

The township ticket, particularly the clerk and squire, was freely discussed.
J. N. Hanley's victory was confidently expected by his friends, while John R.
Reark had many supporters, who claimed when the polls closed that their man had won. The same can be said of the contest for justice of the peace, Mr. Mc-Clain making a strong fight for the position.

The tabulated vote can be found on page 4.

Look Out for the Locomotive!

That is bringing our New Spring and Summer Footwear.

This week 3000 pairs received in three days' time---some of the most novel and beautiful pattens ever brought to East Liverpool. Ladies' fine vesting tops, all colors and designs. Nearly a thousand pairs of the Xenia, Ohio, ladies' dongola $1.50 button and lace shoes received. Every Pair Warranted. Nearly the same number of the celebrated "Rabbits Foot" men's congress and lace $1.50 shoe. Every Pair Warranted.

Come and see the new styles in ladies' and gents' $2 and $3 shoes. No old stock on our shelves. When you buy from us you are sure to get the newest.
Boys, misses, children and the baby department are as well loaded with new things.

Again we ask you to our feast of good things. It is our determination to convince people that our store is the place to buy shoes. In order to get your trade we have decided to give you something for nothing.

Fine decorated and toilet tea sets when you have a certain number of checks to give in exchange. SEE OUR SHOW WINDOW.
Come to our store and be convinced that this is the place to buy shoes, oxfords and slippers.

IN THE DIAMOND.

MORMONS IN ONTARIO.

They Are Increasing at a Rate That Alarms
the Presbyterians.

The Presbyterian Review says that Mormon emissaries have been working in rural districts of Ontario, and their efforts have been very successful. Meetings have been held at which "the most objectionable features of Mormonism have been kept in the background and specious allurements spread out before the people. Many have been caught by the wiles of the missionaries and meetings have been placed on a permanent basis."

It is said that the people have been neglected by the regular churches and as a result have become an "easy prey" to the Mormon propagandist. The Latter Day Saints are operating mostly in western and northwestern Ontario, and it is said that within 12 months 100,000 or more will avow Mormonism in Ontario. The presbyteries of Bruce, Maitland, Saugeen and others are discussing means to stamp out the new sect.

COTTON CHOPPER.

Machine Invented by an Alabama Planter Saves Much Labor.

Captain D. A. Yarborough, a wealthy planter near Athens, Ala., has invented a machine which he claims will revolutionize the cotton growing industry. It is a cotton chopper. The machine was set up in his plantation last year as an experiment and did such good work that Captain Yarborough decided to start manufacturing it.

The invention was the work of necessity, caused by a strike among Captain Yarborough's negro farmhands in the middle of the picking season. The chopper does the work of from 10 to 15 hands, chopping 15 to 20 acres of cotton per day and leaving the soil in much better tillable condition than if done by hand. The construction of the machine is so simple that any country blacksmith or woodworker can build one.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Turnersville's Musical Ghost.

The people of Turnersville, Ind., are greatly worked up over what is supposed to be a musical ghost. At about 10 o'clock every evening, in the house formerly occupied by Andrew Stephens, lately deceased, music is heard, seemingly sacred hymns played on a flute.
They seem to be at some distance from the listener, as though a wall intervened between the musician and the persons listening. The music is perfectly rendered till in the latter part of the hymn, when a false note is struck. It is tried over again, but at every repetition the same mistake occurs and the musician gives it up in disgust. Some of the foremost people of the vicinity have heard the strange performance. All are greatly puzzled.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Wild Beast In a Mine.

A message from Doylestown, O., a mining town in the northeast corner of Wayne county, states that there is great excitement there over the fact that a panther or wildcat had taken refuge in the Mobile coal mine. One of the drivers declares that he was chased by the panther and that to save himself he was forced to jump into a ditch filled with filthy black water. The majority of the men employed in the mine have become so frightened that they have quit work and declare that they will not return until the panther or whatever it is is killed. The men fear that the animal is at the point of starvation, and they fear that hunger will cause it to attack them sooner or later.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Rather Dark Outlook.

Haiti has paid Italy off to save herself from another forced collection, but now France is dunning her for an overdue debt. By the time the black republic gets through with its creditors there won't be enough good stealing left in the country to inspire a colored patriot to run for the presidency.—San Francisco Chronicle.

It is not an uncommon thing, according to a traveler in Russia, to meet a herd of cows or oxen in certain parts of that country wearing blue glasses to counteract the effects caused by the reflection of the snow in winter time.

Australia is 26 times as large as the United Kingdom, 15 as large as France and almost equal to the United States.

FOR GOD AND THE RIGHT.

The NEWS REVIEW is a Republican paper. Its owner and manager has been a Republican from the time of casting his first ballot for Abraham Lincoln to the present hour. He is still a Republican and carries the Republican ticket, as nominated on Saturday, March 19, 1898, at the head of his paper, with the single exception of the name of A. V. Gilbert, and this name he DARE NOT CARRY. Why? Because A. V. Gilbert is not a fit man to occupy the berth of the Chief Magistrate of East Liverpool. You ask me for my proof, and further ask me for my reasons for so acting. Let me make answer thus: A. V. Gilbert solemnly pledged himself to me, on his sacred word of honor, previous to his election, that he would, if elected, enforce the laws and ordinances controlling East Liverpool to the very letter, and that the liquor dealers and saloon keepers who broke the law should be punished in the same manner as would any other lawbreaker and transgressor. He was not asked by me to persecute any man or body of men, but to simply enforce the laws governing this municipality, as he pledged himself, under oath, to do. In return, he asked that my paper should support him warmly, editorially and locally, free of cost, as he was the Republican nominee. I gave him the promise and carried out my pledge, as the columns of the NEWS REVIEW will show. Did he keep his word? Did he carry into effect his promise, given under his sacred word of honor? Nay, verily, he did not, but broke it as carelessly as he would a twig beneath his fingers, and he and his party, the party of a large part of the public, as the acknowledged candidate of the whisky ring. There is on his force today a policeman who made information against a rum shop for doing lawless, illegal work, and who took care to secure witnesses to the illegal act, and when this information was presented to Mayor A. V. Gilbert, he tore it in pieces, cast the fragments aside, and angrily chided the policeman for doing—what? Simply because that officer had performed his duty and carried into effect his oath of office. I personally know that the officer in question made this statement of this high-handed outrage of Mayor A. V. Gilbert to the then President of Council, John J. Purinton, in my presence, and stated that he was willing, at any time, to make the same statement, under oath, to the council controlling East Liverpool. I further know that the impeachment of Mayor A. V. Gilbert was taken into consideration at that time, in the presence of three councilmen and myself, and that the only thing which prevented charges being made was the belief that the majority of the members of the then existing council would sustain the mayor in almost anything he might see fit to do along the line of saloon control, and that sure defeat would necessarily follow an attempt to impeach. Since that time, a fourth member of the then existing council has informed me that he would surely have voted for impeachment had he known that A. V. Gilbert had committed such a heinous offense against law and order. Had John W. Wyman or Elmer A. Stevenson, or in fact any good and law-abiding citizen, fitted for the berth, been nominated by the Republican party on Saturday last, March 19, the NEWS REVIEW would have gloried in standing by him all the way through, with full use of its columns, free of charge, and the owner would have been happy in the consciousness of doing what it could in winning out a victory for the Republican leader. But the NEWS REVIEW will not follow the leadership of a man whom it deems unfit to be placed in a position of trust; a man who has been "weighed in the balances and found wanting;" a man who will not obey the laws himself, and who is therefore an unfit and unsafe man to entrust with the city's best interests. These are some of the reasons why the NEWS REVIEW will not support A. V. Gilbert for mayor.

THE BEST REPORT.

As usual the people depended upon the NEWS REVIEW for the earliest returns from the election, and long before the count was completed in any precinct the usual crowd filled Washington street. This paper did not betray the confidence placed in its abilities and a

The table was allowed to stand throughout yesterday, and hundreds of interested people derived their information of the battle from that source. It was without question the most complete election report ever given East Liverpool so soon after the vote was cast.

Not So Green.

The up town bound cable car apparently was in the hands of a green motorman. At least that was the way the crowd of passengers accepted it when, after each stop, it started up again with a violent jerk, which threw big men around like skittles. Straps were of no value.

At Prince street a little old man got on and made his way to about the middle of the car. He lost something of his mildness of expression when he was thrown suddenly and forcibly against a young woman, knocking off her hat, but he said nothing. Next a big man made a parabolic swing, landed and nearly knocked him through the window. Then the face of the little man grew very red. He pushed his way to the front door, and shaking his finger in the motorman's surly visage, threatened to throw him off the car and run the thing himself. The motorman "sassed" back, but the excited little passenger talked fast and dared him to do it again. Then he shut the door and wanted, and every one held his breath when the bell rang.

But the light did not come off. The car started as gently as molasses, and never once from Prince street, where that one little man stood on his rights, up to Fifth street did the car start in any but the smoothest way.

That motorman was not so green.—New York Sun.

FOR GOD AND THE RIGHT.

The NEWS REVIEW is a Republican paper. Its owner and manager has been a Republican from the time of casting his first ballot for Abraham Lincoln to the present hour. He is still a Republican and carries the Republican ticket, as nominated on Saturday, March 19, 1898, at the head of his paper, with the single exception of the name of A. V. Gilbert, and this name he DARE NOT CARRY. Why? Because A. V. Gilbert is not a fit man to occupy the berth of the Chief Magistrate of East Liverpool. You ask me for my proof, and further ask me for my reasons for so acting. Let me make answer thus: A. V. Gilbert solemnly pledged himself to me, on his sacred word of honor, previous to his election, that he would, if elected, enforce the laws and ordinances controlling East Liverpool to the very letter, and that the liquor dealers and saloon keepers who broke the law should be punished in the same manner as would any other lawbreaker and transgressor. He was not asked by me to persecute any man or body of men, but to simply enforce the laws governing this municipality, as he pledged himself, under oath, to do. In return, he asked that my paper should support him warmly, editorially and locally, free of cost, as he was the Republican nominee. I gave him the promise and carried out my pledge, as the columns of the NEWS REVIEW will show. Did he keep his word? Did he carry into effect his promise, given under his sacred word of honor? Nay, verily, he did not, but broke it as carelessly as he would a twig beneath his fingers, and he and his party, the party of a large part of the public, as the acknowledged candidate of the whisky ring. There is on his force today a policeman who made information against a rum shop for doing lawless, illegal work, and who took care to secure witnesses to the illegal act, and when this information was presented to Mayor A. V. Gilbert, he tore it in pieces, cast the fragments aside, and angrily chided the policeman for doing—what? Simply because that officer had performed his duty and carried into effect his oath of office. I personally know that the officer in question made this statement of this high-handed outrage of Mayor A. V. Gilbert to the then President of Council, John J. Purinton, in my presence, and stated that he was willing, at any time, to make the same statement, under oath, to the council controlling East Liverpool. I further know that the impeachment of Mayor A. V. Gilbert was taken into consideration at that time, in the presence of three councilmen and myself, and that the only thing which prevented charges being made was the belief that the majority of the members of the then existing council would sustain the mayor in almost anything he might see fit to do along the line of saloon control, and that sure defeat would necessarily follow an attempt to impeach. Since that time, a fourth member of the then existing council has informed me that he would surely have voted for impeachment had he known that A. V. Gilbert had committed such a heinous offense against law and order. Had John W. Wyman or Elmer A. These are some of the reasons why the NEWS REVIEW will not support A. V. Gilbert for mayor.

HORRIBLE TRAGEDY IN WELLSVILLE

Oliver M. Reed, an Employee of the Lythe Company, Became Infatuated With Sarah Anne Walton, Although She Endeavored to Convince Him That His Attentions Were Not to Her Liking--He Had Written a Letter Which Showed That He Had Been Brooding Over the Matter, and It Probably Affected His Mind--Details of the Awful Affair Are Given By Miss Gertie Russell, Who Was With the Murdered Girl When Reed Approached Them--The Victim Was Highly Respected, Being the Daughter of Watchman Walton, of the Shops, While Her Slayer Was Known as a Sober, Industrious Young Man--The Inquest Was Postponed and Will Not Be Held Until Tomorrow.

Wellsville was startled last night by the announcement that an awful crime had been committed, a young man had killed the girl on whom he had fastened his affections, and then knowing that punishment would surely follow had turned the weapon against himself. The details of the crime are shocking in the extreme.

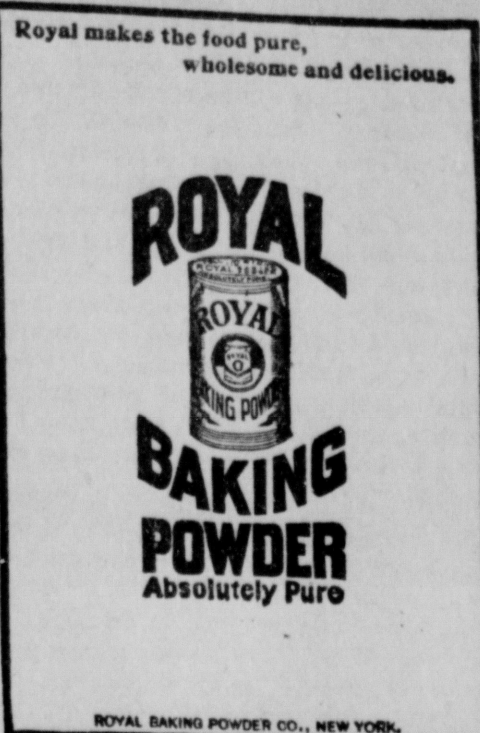

Oliver M. Reed, aged 24, met Sarah Anne Walton in Twelfth street, at 8:30 o'clock, and after the exchange of a few words kissed her good night and shot her through the heart. He then walked a short distance away, and placing the revolver to his head sent a bullet crashing into his brain. Reed died within two hours, but his victim expired almost immediately.

Sometime during last October the young couple met at a social gathering and he at once commenced to pay attention to her. After calling on Miss Walton for three months his intentions became so serious that she objected to his company and so informed him. However, when she went uptown he always met her and accompanied her home seeming determined to pay her attention despite her refusal.

Last night, accompanied by her younger sister, Miss Lizzie, and a friend, Miss Gertrude Russell, she went to the Christian church, and the story of the tragedy as told by Miss Russell is as follows:

"We attended the Christian church, and after services started for home. Mr. Reed followed us. When we reached the Patterson pottery he called to Sarah and said he had something to tell her. She replied that he could tell it right out, but he said he wanted to see no one but her, and caught hold of her sleeve. She told him to let go, but he again said he wanted to see her. She finally broke loose, and we walked real fast until we reached the corner of Short street. He had again caught up to us and said: 'Well, Sarah I want to see you,' and he took her aside and whispered something which we couldn't hear. He then said 'Won't you,' and she said 'no.' He repeated the question, and she again said no very positively. He shook hands with Lizzie and I, and asked Sarah to kiss him good night, which she did. He then shot her, and we started to run and scream. When she reached a point opposite her home she dropped, and Mr. Bainbridge and Mr. Loomire picked her up and carried her into her home. I heard the second shot, but did not see Reed kill himself. They got acquainted last October, but she grew tired of him. I heard him make no threats to kill her."

The reporter then called at the Walton home where the murdered woman was lying on a lounge in the front room. There were no signs to show that she had been murdered and there was almost a peaceful look on her face. The bullet struck her in the heart, and she breathed but twice after she was carried into the house. Doctors Campbell and Tarr were called, but she expired before they arrived. She was known to a great many people and was highly respected. She made her home with her parents in Twelfth street, and occasionally worked at the Patterson pottery. Her father, Adam Walton, is nightwatchman at the shops. The parents are heartbroken over the tragedy.

After committing the murder Reed turned and walked almost a square when he pulled his revolver and shot himself in the forehead, dropping immediately. He was picked up by Officer Morgan and carried to the home of his brother-in-law, G. E. Mendel, who lives but a short distance away, in Short street, where he expired two hours later, despite the efforts of Drs. Campbell and Tarr to prolong his life. He never regained consciousness.

Tightly clasped in his right hand was found the revolver with which the double murder had been committed. It was an old fashioned revolver, 32 calibre, five chambers, with two chambers empty. In his pocket was found a home-made slung shot made of lead attached to a leather handle, weighing probably two pounds. The articles were taken possession of by Constable Thorn.

Oliver M. Reed arrived in Wellsville from Oneida about two years ago, and has always been known as a sober, industrious man. He boarded at the home of his brother-in-law, G. E. Mendel, who was surprised to hear of the tragedy. He had never heard his brother-in-law speak of the matter and did not know he had such thoughts in his mind. His mother has been dead for several years. His father is very old, and it was deemed best not to notify him of the tragedy, but a brother in Oneida was notified, and the funeral arrangements will not be made until he arrives.

When a reporter called at the home of G. E. Mendel the dead man was lying in the parlor on a stretcher. There is a hole about one-fourth of an inch in length in his forehead, but all evidences of the suicide as far as possible had been removed.

Blood flowed from Miss Walton's mouth, and Reed was lying in a pool of blood when he was found, and along the street were pools of blood, but this morning they were covered with dirt and ashes, and a stranger would not have known anything except for the suppressed excitement in the neighborhood.

No person seemed to know the cause of the murder and suicide, and Constable Thorn at once commenced to collect evidence for the inquest. In Reed's trunk he found a note for $800 for alimony which he had made out himself and signed by him with Miss Walton's name. Two other letters addressed to parties in Lisbon were also found along with one to the public. The last named letter is the only one which will throw any light on the affair, and is as follows, just as he wrote it:

"WELLSVILLE, O.,

"(Time cannot change or alter me, whatever may be my lot my heart will still be true to the, then, Oh; forget me not.) (All that is good I wish for thee, not.) all that is bright may thy portion be;) This is the trouble when two lovers bonds are broken and the key of thy hearts are hard to turn against each others hearts, and some day we will lay in our graves at rest when others are weeping the sad loss of the two lovers they parted in young life and joy for they will be many a time they will regret the loss of a dear daughter and her lover who could do more for her than anyone else on this earth, but it seems some one must talk and cause more regrets than one ever had and ever would have but they will wish many a hundred times that they would have kept their mouth shut when the sad news comes to the end. When we are dead in our graves and bury us two lovers side by side in the same coffin for I know Sarah loves me and I have read in her heart many a time and I know I give her all the love I had and my heart two for it seems I have no heart in my bosom for when we would part we would kiss each others sweet lips and shake hands good night or goodbye for I knew she would make a good wife and I a good husband and our hearts was filled with joy when we was together and as happy as a bird. It was her mother that broke the marriage vows for I was willing to take her as a wife any day or any night that she would say yes for I ask her one evening how she would like to be my wife and she said she would like to be my wife and she would do all she could to make home happy and be saving for me and do right by me and be true all of her life if I would and I said I would.

"Oliver M. Reed and Sarah A. Walton, the two who died for love and heart."

That the crime was premeditated is proven by the letter, and it goes to show that Reed had made up his mind to kill the girl and commit suicide last month should she still persist in her refusal to marry him. From her friends it is learned that she grew exceedingly tired of her ardent admirer, and determined to get rid of him. She never expressed any fear of him, and it is not known that he made any threats against her life, or if he did Miss Walton never repeated them to a third person. It is not thought by any person that the young lady ever promised to marry him and it is probable that part of the letter referring to marriage vows being broken by her mother, simply existed in the mind of the murderer, and goes to show that his mind was unbalanced.

Since the tragedy some people have recalled many queer actions on his part, and there are not a few who believe he was insane. A call at the Lyth sewer pipe works developed the fact that he was a good worker, but was considered weak minded by parties with whom he worked.

The only other person who could throw any light on the matter was Miss Lizzie Walton, a sister of the murdered girl, and when a reporter called to see her this morning he was informed that the shock had been too much for her and she was too ill to discuss the awful affair.

Doctor Campbell and Doctor Tarr this morning conducted an autopsy, and will testify at the inquest.

When the girls were in church and a number of people were going to the altar, Miss Walton turned to her companions and said she would like to unite with the church, but she did not like the idea of immersion.

An uncle of Miss Walton stated last evening that she had said she intended to give Reed the "mitten" once for all, and settle the matter.

THE INQUEST.

Squire Riley Was Needed In Lisbon and It Was Postponed.

When the news of the murder became general the authorities arranged to hold the inquest, and Squire Riley subpoenaed a number of witnesses, the hour having been placed at 10 o'clock this morning. Before that time arrived he was needed in Lisbon as a witness, and although he did all in his power to convince the officials that he was needed here they insisted and he was compelled to go.

When the time for the inquest arrived a large number of witnesses appeared at the squire's office, and some were indignant when it was announced that they would have to come tomorrow, as they had left their work in answer to the subpoenas.

Constable Thorn this morning had the two letters which he had taken from Reed's trunk, but they were sealed and he had not opened them. When asked to whom they were addressed he refused to answer. He was questioned by a reporter for the NEWS REVIEW later, but refused to talk about them.

It was reported that Squire Riley had gone to Lisbon, not for the purpose of testifying before the court, but to have the letters opened. Whether there is truth in the rumor remains to be seen.

A CONTINUOUS KILN.

Work Was Started at the Dresden To day.

The work of building a continuous kiln at the Dresden pottery began this morning under the supervision of H. C. Frey, of Rochester. Mr. Frey is the owner of the United States rights for the kiln, it having been patented in France.

The kiln at the Dresden is the first of its kind built in this country. A member of the company said: "We will build the foundation at our own expense and Frey will build the other part. If it is found to be different from the kiln represented, the Dresden company pays nothing. From what I have seen of the working model I am of the opinion that the scheme will be a success."

HORRIBLE TRAGEDY IN WELLSVILLE

Oliver M. Reed, an Employee of the Lythe Company, Became Infatuated With Sarah Anne Walton, Although She Endeavored to Convince Him That His Attentions Were Not to Her Liking--He Had Written a Letter Which Showed That He Had Been Brooding Over the Matter, and It Probably Affected His Mind--Details of the Awful Affair Are Given By Miss Gertie Russell, Who Was With the Murdered Girl When Reed Approached Them--The Victim Was Highly Respected, Being the Daughter of Watchman Walton, of the Shops, While Her Slayer Was Known as a Sober, Industrious Young Man--The Inquest Was Postponed and Will Not Be Held Until Tomorrow.

Wellsville was startled last night by the announcement that an awful crime had been committed, a young man had killed the girl on whom he had fastened his affections, and then knowing that punishment would surely follow had turned the weapon against himself. The details of the crime are shocking in the extreme.

Oliver M. Reed, aged 24, met Sarah Anne Walton in Twelfth street, at 8:30 o'clock, and after the exchange of a few words kissed her good night and shot her through the heart. He then walked a short distance away, and placing the revolver to his head sent a bullet crashing into his brain. Reed died within two hours, but his victim expired almost immediately.

Sometime during last October the young couple met at a social gathering and he at once commenced to pay attention to her. After calling on Miss Walton for three months his intentions became so serious that she objected to his company and so informed him. However, when she went up town he always met her and accompanied her home seeming determined to pay her attention despite her refusal.

Last night, accompanied by her younger sister, Miss Lizzie, and a friend, Miss Gertrude Russell, she went to the Christian church, and the story of the tragedy as told by Miss Russell is as follows:

"We attended the Christian church, and after services started for home. Mr. Reed followed us. When we reached the Patterson pottery he called to Sarah and said he had something to tell her. She replied that he could tell it right out, but he said he wanted to see no one but her, and caught hold of her sleeve. She told him to let go, but he again said he wanted to see her. She finally broke loose, and we walked real fast until we reached the corner of Short street. He had again caught up to us and said: 'Well, Sarah I want to see you,' and he took her aside and whispered something which we couldn't hear. He then said 'Won't you,' and she said 'no.' He repeated the question, and she again said no very positively. He shook hands with Lizzie and I, and asked Sarah to kiss him good night, which she did. He then shot her, and we started to run and scream. When she reached a point opposite her home she dropped, and Mr. Bainbridge and Mr. Loomire picked her up and carried her into her home. I heard the second shot, but did not see Reed kill himself. They got acquainted last October, but she grew tired of him. I heard him make no threats to kill her."

The reporter then called at the Walton home where the murdered woman was lying on a lounge in the front room. There were no signs to show that she had been murdered and there was almost a peaceful look on her face. The bullet struck her in the heart, and she breathed but twice after she was carried into the house. Doctors Campbell and Tarr were called, but she expired before they arrived. She was known to a great many people and was highly respected. She made her home with her parents in Twelfth street, and occasionally worked at the Patterson pottery. Her father, Adam Walton, is nightwatchman at the shops. The parents are heartbroken over the tragedy.

After committing the murder Reed turned and walked almost a square when he pulled his revolver and shot himself in the forehead, dropping immediately. He was picked up by Officer Morgan and carried to the home of his brother-in-law, G. E. Mendel, who lives but a short distance away, in Short street, where he expired two hours later, despite the efforts of Drs. Campbell and Tarr to prolong his life. He never regained consciousness.

Tightly clasped in his right hand was found the revolver with which the double murder had been committed. It was an old fashioned revolver, 32 calibre, five chambers, with two chambers empty. In his pocket was found a home-made slung shot made of lead attached to a leather handle, weighing probably two pounds. The articles were taken possession of by Constable Thorn.

Oliver M. Reed arrived in Wellsville from Oneida about two years ago, and has always been known as a sober, industrious man. He boarded at the home of his brother-in-law, G. E. Mendel, who was surprised to hear of the tragedy. He had never heard his brother-in-law speak of the matter and did not know he had such thoughts in his mind. His mother has been dead for several years. His father is very old, and it was deemed best not to notify him of the tragedy, but a brother in Oneida was notified, and the funeral arrangements will not be made until he arrives.

When a reporter called at the home of G. E. Mendel the dead man was lying in the parlor on a stretcher. There is a hole about one-fourth of an inch in length in his forehead, but all evidences of the suicide as far as possible had been removed.

Blood flowed from Miss Walton's mouth, and Reed was lying in a pool of blood when he was found, and along the street were pools of blood, but this morning they were covered with dirt and ashes, and a stranger would not have known anything except for the suppressed excitement in the neighborhood.

No person seemed to know the cause of the murder and suicide, and Constable Thorn at once commenced to collect evidence for the inquest. In Reed's trunk he found a note for $800 for alimony which he had made out himself and signed by him with Miss Walton's name. Two other letters addressed to parties in Lisbon were also found along with one to the public. The last named letter is the only one which will throw any light on the affair, and is as follows, just as he wrote it:

"WELLSVILLE, O.,
Tuesday, Feb. 2-15, '98.

"Time cannot change or alter me, whatever may be my lot my heart will still be true to the, then, Oh; forget me not. DIDN'T WANT TO SERVE

But the Democrats Had to Have a Ticket.

JOHN KERR NAMED FOR MAYOR

He Did Not Attend the Midnight Convention, and Could Not Decline—An Unusually Earnest Time Among Those Who Were Present.

According to the expressed intention of the Democracy it was 11:10 o'clock, after the result of the Republican primaries was known, before the convention assembled. J. J. Weisend was chairman and John Litmer acted as secretary. The first business was an objection from Mr. Morrow. He didn't like these midnight conventions, and said so, expressing the belief that the Democratic party was as big as the Republican party ever dared be, and he looked upon all this as baby work.

Then the 12 persons present got down to business. James Green named John Kerr for mayor, the speech being earnest in the extreme, Weisend having promptly declined. Mr. Allison named Ed Cook, but he too declined, and the place finally went to Kerr.

Cook nominated Dallas Anderson for marshal but he refused to be placed, as did Lawrence Allison, Joseph Riley, James Green, James Tracy and John Litmer, and John Grant who was not present, was named.

Walter Cook did not want to be solicitor, and as there was no other material that matter was dropped. James H. Tracy positively refused to be treasurer, and John Hall, being absent, was chosen. James Green, James Tracy, Peter Fennell each declined the street commissionerhip, and the honor was given Thomas McLaughlin, another absentee. The office of water works trustee was vigorously declined by Weisend and Morrow, and handed over to Job Dawson, who was not present. Mr. Usher would not have the place of cemetery trustee, and it was left open.

His friends seemed determined to make Tracy justice of the peace, but he refused, and James Collins was nominated. Mr. Collins was not present to decline. As no one would have the nomination for trustee the office was left vacant and after a great deal of difficulty Dallas Anderson was prevailed upon to stand for constable.

The board of education caused confusion. Doctor Iker's name was mentioned, but upon the positive statement that he was not a candidate for anything, it was withdrawn. Two ladies were also talked of, but as their politics was not known, they too were passed. At length the list was announced as C. A. Ferguson, Ed Cook, Alex McBane F. L. Fisher and Harvey McHenry. The convention then adjourned, Mr. Morrow having announced that the committee of notification should wear baseball masks when they went to tell the victims of their nomination.

Fisher, Anderson and Tracy were appointed to fill vacancies on the ticket.

RUSHING WORK.

The East End Extension Is Almost Done.

An official of the street railway stated yesterday that cars would be running over the East End extension by Saturday next.

The trolley wire was partially stretched today and work is being rushed as fast as possible. The loop will be 300 feet further east than was first planned, but this was caused by a property owner not allowing the company to put it on his land. The matter was settled without any trouble, and a place for the loop was soon decided upon.

THE SUDAN SPIDERS.

To Live Happily In the Sudan One Must Get Used to the Insects.

If one wants to live happily in the Sudan, one must get used to spiders. They crawl into your dressing bag or come upon the table while you are washing, taking great interest in soap and tooth powder and all toilet requisites. Disturbed, they retire into your sponge and remain there till they are drowned out. One must also become accustomed to sand or dust storms, for they are frequent and terrible disturbers of your comfort. They come upon you suddenly when you are quite unaware of their close proximity, just as express trains at a busy junction surprise the passenger uninitiated in the mysteries of signaling. There is a distinct sound like the coming of a train, then a rush by and the after draft. Palms sway and bow their rustling fronds to the earth, and eddies of dust buffet you on all sides, lifting you from your feet. Tents are turned inside out, scattering their contents to the winds, or everything is incruusted with an impalpable powder, which seals up one's eyes, plugs one's nose and ears or chokes one with the nauseating sweepings of a foul camping ground. As I am writing this a dust hurricane which has been making life miserable for the last three days is still blowing.

The fierce blast of the wind makes metal so hot that the heat from the ink carrying the ink to paper dries up the fluid before a line can well be penned. The sweat of the hand, too, mixed with the layer of dust on the paper, so soils the manuscript that one feels loath to send it. The flies, seeking your tent for shelter from the cruel blast without, cling to your nose and eyelids with a tenacity which is almost maddening. At meals each dish is covered with grit before it can be consumed, and one has to nurse odd corners of the tent to shield one's cup from the puffs of dust beating up from under the canvas before one can get a drink that is not absolutely muddy.—London Standard.

RIP VAN WINKLE.

Jefferson Discovers Something Incongruous About His Celebrated Play.

Joe Jefferson calls attention to an interesting fact regarding Rip Van Winkle. He says:

"There is one incongruity in Rip Van Winkle which is seldom criticised. Possibly none of you ever noticed it. Indeed, I will confess that until recently the fact never occurred to me with any force. Well, you could never guess, so I will tell you. It is this: Rip Van Winkle is the only person in the play who speaks English with a slightly broken Dutch accent. All of the other characters are obliged to content themselves with ordinary English.

"It heightens the effect for Rip to speak as he does in broken accents, but if all the other characters were to attempt a dialect there would be such a variety of accent that the effect would be incongruous and ridiculous. All the feeling and sentiment of the play would be lost in this polyglot attempt at dialect.

"Several years ago a man engaged to play Nick Vedder came on at rehearsal and commenced to talk in the broadest low Dutch accent. I stopped him at once, but in his own defense he exclaimed:

"But Nick Vedder would talk that way, wouldn't he, if Rip Van Winkle did?"

"Yes," I replied, "he would, but you mustn't." And no doubt the man thought me very unreasonable. But this only illustrates the point that many things apparently illogical must be done on the stage to secure effect by inspiring the imagination. Absolute realism would be fatal. Under certain conditions it is the necessity of dramatic art to make the impossible seem real."—Milwaukee Wisconsin.

Measures of Distance.

A traveler in Florida says that on being asked how far a certain place was a native replied: "Waal, I reckon hit's 'bout two whoops." P'r'ps hit may be some furdur," he continued reflectively, "but I 'low hit ain't more'n two whoops an a holler." In Arkansas they will tell you it is two looks and a go by, meaning you are to pass two houses and find your destination just beyond the next. In other parts of the west, it is said, the natives measure distances in "chaws" of plug and will tell you your destination is about "two chaws" away. The Scottish way is to say, "It's a far cry," meaning it is about as far as one can shout, while in many cases distance is measured in time, the German "stunde" doubtless having its origin thus.

A Gentlemanly Shot.

Mr. John C. Dyson of Washington, Ga., while out partridge shooting recently made the most remarkable shot on record. He was on stony ground, and as the bird flew up he raised his gun to shoot, but the stock caught in his clothing and the gun was fired, the shot striking the rock and, ricocheting, killed the bird. The large, smooth rock shows where the load from the gun struck. There were a number of witnesses who saw the bird killed in this manner, and besides Mr. Dyson is a gentleman who would not need a witness to even as remarkable a shot as this one.—Washington (Ga.) Chronicle.

AMERICAN GINSENG.

THE DEMAND FOR IT IN CHINESE MARKETS.

It Will Sell For $3 to $3.50 (Gold) Per Pound—Should Be Packed In Cotton To Avoid Ereakage—Thousands of Dollars' Worth Imported Annually.

Consul Rounseville Wildman sends from Hongkong to the state department an answer to several inquiries concerning the market for American ginseng in China. The report is as follows:

The price of ginseng, like the price of deer horn, is governed more by sentiment than by the law of supply and demand. It depends upon the color, the form, the size and its fancied resemblance to the human body. Two pieces of ginseng, both weighing the same and both of the same color and taken from the same ground at the same time, might vary 100 per cent in price, and yet there is no real reason to occidental eyes for the distinction. The preferred variety is thin and has two lateral arms projecting from the stem, just above the body.

Of course no such price as $100 an ounce is ever under any circumstances paid for the American growth, although I have seen mandarin ginseng that was worth 135 times its own weight in silver. As a general statement, American ginseng will sell here for $3 to $3.50 (gold) per pound. It would not sell for less and might, if properly exploited, bring ten times that much; I mean if it were exhibited in such a way that the Chinese could buy it piece by piece as fish or chickens are bought in the public market instead of by the quantity.

The market for a good article is practically unlimited. There are 400,000,000 Chinese, and all to some extent use ginseng. If they can once become satisfied with the results obtained from the tea made of the American ginseng, the yearly demand will run up into the millions of dollars' worth. The mandarin, or imperial, ginseng ($50 to $200 an ounce) is beyond the reach of the majority, and the Korean ginseng is used more as a tonic than as a panacea. Hongkong is a free port, so the only expense of sending ginseng would be freight across the continent and across the Pacific to Hongkong.

As to packing, that is a question to be decided on the quality and condition of the article. Of course the crude root would come in tight boxes or barrels, but the clarified would demand more care. If the exporter wished to test the market in competition with the Manchurian ginseng, I would advise him to pack in cotton, so there could be no possible breakage or even rubbing of one root against another. In any case the clarified root (rendered translucent by steaming, skimming and drying) should be packed carefully, so as not to break. The little part or nub where the arms join the stem is considered of far greater value than the lower section, while the part above ground is not eaten at all. It is supposed to be injurious. Consequently if the nub is broken off two-thirds of the value of the root would be gone. It must be attached to the body. Good ginseng breaks easily.

The root is never powdered here. The reason is that a Chinaman is justly suspicious of powder. When he pays 50 cents or $100 for an ounce of ginseng or $450 for a deer horn, he wants his money's worth. The powder might be made of any similar root or horn of no value. Ginseng, like wine, increases in value with its age. The best ginseng has been growing for 100 to 200 years. The Korean ginseng is supposed to arrive at perfection after 30 years, although it is used after six years. This is one of the reasons why ginseng is so high priced. I take it for granted that the American ginseng is wild and so may be of any age, even more than a century old. The age is told by counting the rings on the center and side roots, or those parts resembling the torso and arms. The plant loves moisture and shade and is found on mountain slopes, in dense forests, where sunlight never enters.

If American farmers of the mountain regions of Pennsylvania, Michigan, Colorado, Wyoming, Georgia, Idaho and North Carolina, where ginseng grows wild, would cultivate on land that had no other productive value, the crop would be a splendid heritage for the second generation, even if the original planter did not realize upon it in his lifetime. There will always be a market for all kinds of good ginseng in China.

It is absolutely believed in by all Chinese, from the highest to the lowest, and there would be millions of testimonials as to its efficacy and the wonders it has accomplished for any one who desired them. Besides being used in cases of actual sickness, wealthy people make it into a tea and drink it as a purely precautionary measure as we take quinine. It is prepared by putting a bit of the root and some water in a small covered pot, which is placed in a larger pot full of water. When the water in the large pot boils, the infusion is ready for use.

W. M. S. Beede, M. D., the United States consular surgeon at Hongkong, says:

"While there is a difference between the American and Chinese species of ginseng in appearance it is undetermined whether or not they are identical in action. It is at least certain that the former is only agreeable in taste and perhaps useful as a mild stomachic. The latter enjoys in China the reputation of a panacea, and especially of being aphrodisiac. The affections for whose cure it is most esteemed are such as are usually treated by aromatic stimulants—namely, dyspepsia, vomiting and nervous disorders."

American ginseng (yeong shane) is imported by Hongkong and Canton merchants to the extent of thousands of dollars' worth annually. One of the oldest and leading chemists of Hongkong has supplied me the following notes on the relative values of Chinese, American and Korean ginsengs: Of the three, not including the Manchurian, Korean ginseng ranks the best. Practically speaking, very little ginseng is produced in China. What is called the native ginseng is grown in the province of Szechuen. It is of an inferior quality to either the American or Korean, but in shape and color it resembles the former, though it is thinner and shorter in size.

The prices of ginseng rise and fall as those of any other commodity. The select Korean ginsengs are very valuable. The sticks are perfect and very carefully packed. They are generally sent to Peking for the use of the imperial family and high officials. Some of them are almost as precious as gold.

ETCHING BY ELECTRICITY.

A. Werner of Milwaukee Has Made an Important Discovery.

A. Werner, a well known silversmith of Milwaukee, has discovered a method by which signs, pictures and drawings can be made by the combined use of photography and electricity, and the invention may cause a revolution in the art of engraving. He has been experimenting for ten years, and recently discovered the method.

The process is interesting. In the first place, a drawing must be made of the sign or plate. This drawing is photographed and the photograph transferred to a metal plate, which may be of zinc, brass, copper, bronze, silver or any other metal. This metal plate is then hung on a copper wire into a so called bath and an electric current turned on. In a few seconds a copy of the lead pencil drawing is etched into the metal deep enough to be visible for 100 years. Then the plate is conveyed to another bath and again connected with the electric current. At this moment the indentures begin to fill with jet black matter until they appear almost even with the surface of the plate. The plate is then washed, dried and varnished with a coating expressly prepared for this purpose.

This protects it and saves the trouble of polishing. Signs which are exposed continually to the weather require deep etching and heavy enameling, so that they can be cleaned without injuring the surface. The same process may be applied to pictures and pen drawings, and the copies will last for 1,000 years, leaving the contours of the faces, etc., sharp and distinct.—Milwaukee Wisconsin.

DIDN'T WANT TO SERVE

But the Democrats Had to Have a Ticket.

JOHN KERR NAMED FOR MAYOR

He Did Not Attend the Midnight Convention, and Could Not Decline—An Unusually Earnest Time Among Those Who Were Present.

According to the expressed intention of the Democracy it was 11:10 o'clock, after the result of the Republican primaries was known, before the convention assembled. J. J. Weisend was chairman and John Litmer acted as secretary. The first business was an objection from Mr. Morrow. He didn't like these midnight conventions, and said so, expressing the belief that the Democratic party was as big as the Republican party ever dared be, and he looked upon all this as baby work.

Then the 12 persons present got down to business. James Green named John Kerr for mayor, the speech being earnest in the extreme, Weisend having promptly declined. Mr. Allison named Ed Cook, but he too declined, and the place finally went to Kerr.

Cook nominated Dallas Anderson for marshal but he refused to be placed, as did Lawrence Allison, Joseph Riley, James Green, James Tracy and John Litmer, and John Grant who was not present, was named.

Walter Cook did not want to be solicitor, and as there was no other material that matter was dropped. James H. Tracy positively refused to be treasurer, and John Hall, being absent, was chosen. James Green, James Tracy, Peter Fennell each declined the street commissionership, and the honor was given Thomas McLaughlin, another absentee. The office of water works trustee was vigorously declined by Weisend and Morrow, and handed over to Job Dawson, who was not present. Mr. Usler would not have the place of cemetery trustee, and it was left open.

His friends seemed determined to make Tracy justice of the peace, but he refused, and James Collins was nominated. Mr. Collins was not present to decline. As no one would have the nomination for trustee the office was left vacant and after a great deal of difficulty Dallas Anderson was prevailed upon to stand for constable.

The board of education caused confusion. Doctor Ikert's name was mentioned, but upon the positive statement that he was not a candidate for anything, it was withdrawn. Two ladies were also talked of, but as their politics was not known, they too were passed. At length the list was announced as C. A. Ferguson, Ed Cook, Alex McBane F. L. Fisher and Harvey McHenry. The convention then adjourned, Mr. Morrow having announced that the committee of notification should wear baseball masks when they went to tell the victims of their nomination.

Fisher, Anderson and Tracy were appointed to fill vacancies on the ticket.

RUSHING WORK.

The East End Extension Is Almost Done.

An official of the street railway stated yesterday that cars would be running over the East End extension by Saturday next.

The trolley wire was partially stretched today and work is being rushed as fast as possible. The loop will be 300 feet further east than was first planned, but this was caused by a property owner not allowing the company to put it on his land. The matter was settled without any trouble, and a place for the loop was soon decided upon.

The Circus that Wintered Here is All Activity.

That portion of a circus that wintered in this city on the beach, back of the passenger depot, will soon move.

THE SUDAN SPIDERS.

If one wants to live happily in the Sudan, one must get used to spiders. They crawl into your dressing bag or come upon the table while you are washing, taking great interest in soap and tooth powder and all toilet requisites. Disturbed, they retire into your sponge and remain there till they are drowned out. One must also become accustomed to sand or dust storms, for they are frequent and terrible disturbers of your comfort. They come upon you suddenly when you are quite unaware of their close proximity, just as express trains at a busy junction surprise the passenger uninitiated in the mysteries of signaling. There is a distinct sound like the coming of a train, then a rush by and the after draft. Palms sway and bow their rustling fronds to the earth, and eddies of dust buffet you on all sides, lifting you from your feet. Tents are turned inside out, scattering their contents to the winds, or everything is incrustated with an impalpable powder, which seals up one's eyes, plugs one's nose and ears or chokes one with the nauseating sweepings of a foul camping ground. As I am writing this a dust hurricane which has been making life miserable for the last three days is still blowing.

The fierce blast of the wind makes metal so hot that the heat from the nib carrying the ink to paper dries up the fluid before a line can well be penned. The sweat of the hand, too, mixed with the layer of dust on the paper, so soils the manuscript that one feels loath to send it. The flies, seeking your tent for shelter from the cruel blast without, cling to your nose and eyelids with a tenacity which is almost maddening. At meals each dish is covered with grit before it can be consumed, and one has to nurse odd corners of the tent to shield one's cup from the puffs of dust beating up from under the canvas before one can get a drink that is not absolutely muddy.—London Standard.

RIP VAN WINKLE.

Jefferson Discovers Something Incongruous About His Celebrated Play.

Joe Jefferson calls attention to an interesting fact regarding Rip Van Winkle. He says:

"There is one incongruity in Rip Van Winkle which is seldom criticised. Possibly none of you ever noticed it. Indeed, I will confess that until recently the fact never occurred to me with any force. Well, you could never guess, so I will tell you. It is this: Rip Van Winkle is the only person in the play who speaks English with a slightly broken Dutch accent. All of the other characters are obliged to content themselves with ordinary English.

"It heightens the effect for Rip to speak as he does in broken accents, but if all the other characters were to attempt a dialect there would be such a variety of accent that the effect would be incongruous and ridiculous. All the feeling and sentiment of the play would be lost in this polyglot attempt at dialect.

"Several years ago a man engaged to play Nick Vedder came on at rehearsal and commenced to talk in the broadest low Dutch accent. I stopped him at once, but in his own defense he exclaimed:

"'But Nick Vedder would talk that way, wouldn't he, if Rip Van Winkle did?'

"'Yes,' I replied, 'he would, but you mustn't.' And no doubt the man thought me very unreasonable. But this only illustrates the point that many things apparently illogical must be done on the stage to secure effect by inspiring the imagination. Absolute realism would be fatal. Under certain conditions it is the necessity of dramatic art to make the impossible seem real."—Milwaukee Wisconsin.

Measures of Distance.

A traveler in Florida says that on being asked how far a certain place was a native replied: "Waal, I reckon hit's 'bout two whoops. P'r'ps hit may be some fuder," he continued reflectively, "but I 'low hit ain't more'n two whoops an a holler." In Arkansas they will tell you it is two looks and a go by, meaning you are to pass two houses and find your destination just beyond the next. In other parts of the west, it is said, the natives measure distances in "chaws" of plug and will tell you your destination is about "two chaws" away. The Scottish way is to say, "It's a far cry," meaning it is about as far as one can shout, while in many cases distance is measured in time, the German "stunde" doubtless having its origin thus.

A Gentlemanly Shot.

Mr. John C. Dyson of Washington, Ga., while out partridge shooting recently made the most remarkable shot on record. He was on stony ground, and as the bird flew up he raised his gun to shoot, but the stock caught in his clothing and the gun was fired, the shot striking the rock and, ricocheting, killed the bird. The large, smooth rock shows where the load from the gun struck. There were a number of witnesses who saw the bird killed in this manner, and besides Mr. Dyson is a gentleman who would not need a witness to even a remarkable shot as this one.—Washington (Ga.) Chronicle.

AMERICAN GINSENG.

THE DEMAND FOR IT IN CHINESE MARKETS.

It Will Sell For $3 to $3.50 (Gold) Per Pound—Should Be Packed In Cotton to Avoid Breakage—Thousands of Dollars' Worth Imported Annually.

Consul Rounseville Wildman sends from Hongkong to the state department an answer to several inquiries concerning the market for American ginseng in China. The report is as follows:

The price of ginseng, like the price of deer horn, is governed more by sentiment than by the law of supply and demand. It depends upon the color, the form, the size and its fancied resemblance to the human body. Two pieces of ginseng, both weighing the same and both of the same color and taken from the same ground at the same time, might vary 100 per cent in price, and yet there is no real reason to occidental eyes for the distinction. The preferred variety is thin and has two lateral arms projecting from the stem, just above the body.

Of course no such price as $100 an ounce is ever under any circumstances paid for the American growth, although I have seen mandarin ginseng that was worth 135 times its own weight in silver. As a general statement, American ginseng will sell here for $3 to $3.50 (gold) per pound. It would not sell for less and might, if properly exploited, bring ten times that much; I mean if it were exhibited in such a way that the Chinese could buy it piece by piece as fish or chickens are bought in the public market instead of by the quantity.

The market for a good article is practically unlimited. There are 400,000,000 Chinese, and all to some extent use ginseng. If they can once become satisfied with the results obtained from the tea made of the American ginseng, the yearly demand will run up into the millions of dollars' worth. The mandarin, or imperial, ginseng ($50 to $200 an ounce) is beyond the reach of the majority, and the Korean ginseng is used more as a tonic than as a panacea. Hongkong is a free port, so the only expense of sending ginseng would be freight across the continent and across the Pacific to Hongkong.

As to packing, that is a question to be decided on the quality and condition of the article. Of course the crude root would come in tight boxes or barrels, but the clarified would demand more care. If the exporter wished to test the market in competition with the Manchurian ginseng, I would advise him to pack in cotton, so there could be no possible breakage or even rubbing of one root against another. In any case the clarified root (rendered translucent by steaming, skinning and drying) should be packed carefully, so as not to break. The little part or nub where the arms join the stem is considered of far greater value than the lower section, while the part above ground is not eaten at all. It is supposed to be injurious. Consequently if the nub is broken off two-thirds of the value of the root would be gone. It must be attached to the body. Good ginseng breaks easily.

The root is never powdered here. The reason is that a Chinaman is justly suspicious of powder. When he pays 50 cents or $100 for an ounce of ginseng or $450 for a deer horn, he wants his money's worth. The powder might be made of any similar root or horn of no value. Ginseng, like wine, increases in value with its age. The best ginseng has been growing for 100 to 200 years. The Korean ginseng is supposed to arrive at perfection after 30 years, although it is used after six years. This is one of the reasons why ginseng is so high priced. I take it for granted that the American ginseng is wild and so may be of any age, even more than a century old. The age is told by counting the rings on the center and side roots, or those parts resembling the torso and arms. The plant loves moisture and shade and is found on mountain slopes, in dense forests, where sunlight never enters.

If American farmers of the mountain regions of Pennsylvania, Michigan, Colorado, Wyoming, Georgia, Idaho and North Carolina, where ginseng grows wild, would cultivate on land that had no other productive value, the crop would be a splendid heritage for the second generation, even if the original planter did not realize upon it in his lifetime. There will always be a market for all kinds of good ginseng in China.

It is absolutely believed in by all Chinese, from the highest to the lowest, and there would be millions of testimonials as to its efficacy and the wonders it has accomplished for any one who desired them. Besides being used in cases of actual sickness, wealthy people make it into a tea and drink it as a purely precautionary measure as we take quinine. It is prepared by putting a bit of the root and some water in a small covered pot, which is placed in a larger pot full of water. When the water in the large pot boils, the infusion is ready for use.

W. M. S. Beede, M. D., the United States consular surgeon at Hongkong, says:

"While there is a difference between the American and Chinese species of ginseng in appearance it is undetermined whether or not they are identical in action. It is at least certain that the former is only agreeable in taste and perhaps useful as a mild stomachic. The latter enjoys in China the reputation of a panacea, and especially of being aphrodisiac. The affections for whose cure it is most esteemed are such as are usually treated by aromatic stimulants—namely, dyspepsia, vomiting and nervous disorders."

American ginseng (yeong shane) is imported by Hongkong and Canton merchants to the extent of thousands of dollars' worth annually. One of the oldest and leading chemists of Hongkong has supplied me the following notes on the relative values of Chinese, American and Korean ginsengs: Of the three, not including the Manchurian, Korean ginseng ranks the best. Practically speaking, very little ginseng is produced in China. What is called the native ginseng is grown in the province of Szechuen. It is of an inferior quality to either the American or Korean, but in shape and color it resembles the former, though it is thinner and shorter in size.

The prices of ginseng rise and fall as those of any other commodity. The select Korean ginsengs are very valuable. The sticks are perfect and very carefully packed. They are generally sent to Peking for the use of the imperial family and high officials. Some of them are almost as precious as gold.

WAS AFTER THE MAYOR

Doctor Huston Preached a Fiery Sermon

SCORING THE CITY GOVERNMENT

While Loud Amens Came From All Parts of the First M. E. Church—Doctor Taggart Also Touched Upon That Interesting Subject—In Other Churches.

At the First M. E. Church last night Dr. J. M. Huston took as his subject "The Devil Let Loose in East Liverpool," and the scoring he gave the city Administration was such as to excite the greatest of interest and was the talk of the town today. He began with Paul in Ephesus and said: "I would like to see Paul have hold of a man like the mayor of East Liverpool. Wouldn't he make the fur fly?" Then he pointed out the influence of the whisky ring on the politics of the city, showing that a saloon keeper had laughed at a well known church man and told him it was folly for the Christian element to fight them at the polls. Doctor Huston made some very serious charges against city officials, not designating them by name, but calling their office, so that no one in the congregation misunderstood him. It was a powerful sermon, and by it the gentleman plainly showed his congregation that he did not believe they should support A. V. Gilbert for mayor.

BEAUTIFUL SINGING

Was the Feature of the First Presbyterian Meeting.

The beautiful singing of Mr. and Miss Yarnell was the leading feature at the services held in the First Presbyterian church yesterday, although Dr. John Lloyd Lee delivered sermons of unusual merit. The attendance at each service was very large, and last night the auditorium, lecture room and aisles were crowded. It is estimated that fully 1500 persons were there.

Nothing but praises could be heard for Mr. and Miss Yarnell. Although not professional singers and only here at the earnest solicitation of Doctor Lee, it seldom happens that such music has been heard in the city. While they sang, that great congregation was silent, no sound breaking the stillness but the magnificent voices of father and daughter.

The greater part of the audience remained for the after meeting, and it was productive of much good. Mr. Yarnell's address was highly appreciated.

RUM AND RUIN

Is What Doctor Taggart Said of the Administration.

At the First U. P. church Doctor Taggart preached last night on the "Valley of Decision," and had something to say concerning the present state of affairs. "It depends on the people," he said, "whether the man nominated yesterday for mayor will be re-elected to continue the same rule of rum and ruin."

Christian Church.

Mrs. J. C. Stone, an intimate friend and coworker with Frances Willard, delivered a splendid address along the line of temperance at the Christian church last night. She stated that there were 250,000 saloons in the United States and 18,000,000 of tipplers and toppers. This is offset by 50,000 preachers and 21,000,000 of church members. The churches of the United States represent $10,000,000 for every one million of the liquor traffic. Six million five hundred thousand voters in the churches. "Men, you have the weapons and power in your hands. If you are too cowardly to use them, then, in the name of God and humanity, climb into the garret and hide, leaving your weapons with Betsey, and she will tackle the bear and slay him, and you can then come down and rejoice in the fact that you are safe and the monster dead." Space forbids a full report. The entire address was bristling with good points, showing that God wins contests against great majorities, citing the case of Gideon with his 300 men, after 31,700 had deserted him, defeating an enemy of 187,000. God promised victory and his promises never fail. Mrs. Stone speaks at the Christian church Wednesday and Thursday of this week. Don't miss the rich treat offered you.

A PATHETIC LETTER.

Mrs. M. J. Tams of Philadelphia recently received a most pathetic letter from her son, William H. Tams, who was on his way at the time of the writing to a Spanish prison, probably the famous and foul penal colony at Ceuta, Africa. Young Tams left Philadelphia on board a filibustering expedition several months ago and joined the rebel army immediately upon his arrival in Cuba. The letter was as follows:

LISBON, Feb. 10.
DEAR MOTHER—I write to let you know that I am still alive but not in good health. I am going to a Spanish prison with a broken arm and leg which I had when captured in Cuba. I do not know whether I will ever come back, but I guess I will come out all right.

There are several of us, and we have a plan to escape in Europe, and the man who takes this letter is to help us as much as possible, and I may be back in the States some time within the year if I have luck, which I hope I will.

We are in bad shape and were caught with arms in our hands. There is no mercy shown us and probably will not be unless we have war, which I hope to see come. We are treated worse than slaves ever were. I will let you hear from me again as soon as possible.

All I had was taken away from me—some hundred dollars—but I think I will be able to recover it as soon as this trouble is over. I will have to close now to get this letter off. I cannot tell you where to write to me, but will let you know as soon as possible.

Mother, dear, I have gone through hell since Aug. 12, and if I ever live to see the States again I will never leave. Again I bid you all goodbye; probably for the last time. I send love to all. Goodbye. From your son.

AN IOWAN'S LETTER.

Dill McCard Writes of the Hardships of Life on the Yukon.

There are now about 12 Eldora (Ia.) men in the Alaskan gold region. Dill McCard, who left home in December, writes under date of Feb. 13 as follows:

"I was in Lake Bennett two days, and it was very cold all the time. It was 30 degrees below zero or worse. I did not take my blankets down with me the last eight miles, as I expected to return to them at night, but I fell in with a fellow who said he had plenty of blankets for both. But when night came I came near freezing and got up at 1 o'clock and built a fire to keep warm.

"There is a good deal of sickness here, and every day we saw some poor fellow brought in on a hand sled to be buried or sent home to his people. I have seen six since I started to Lake Bennett. They have some sort of a spinal or spotted fever. At least they turn spotted after they die. I meet a good many men from Dawson, and they are most all going back, and some say a man earns every dollar he gets from that country. Only the best men and those best equipped ever go through the hardships. I think over three-fourths of the people have turned back since I came up here. Some take their goods 10 or 15 miles and then sell out for little or nothing."

—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

HIS HARD EXPERIENCE.

N. A. Perry of Nevada Who Now Has Little Use for the Klondike.

"As long as the poorhouse stands there is no excuse to start for the Yukon," said N. A. Perry of Nevada, who has recently been brought home, near Eldora, Ia., more dead than alive, and who is suffering from a physical condition from which he can never recover. Mr. Perry was seized with fever at Dawson, and his companions hauled him over the icy mountains on a hand sled.

He states that they passed several dead bodies, and one poor fellow nigh unto death begged for help, but the crowd passed on and left him. Perry had his fingers, toes and face frozen, but he made a find. He took up a claim and dug about 16 feet and found a nugget worth about $120 in payment for all his suffering. He has no love for the golden country and says Iowa is good enough for him.—St. Paul Pioneer Press.

Effect of Hawaii's Climate.

"Hawaii has an ideally lovely climate, but one gets extremely tired of its monotonous perfection," said Mr. J. B. Albright of California recently. "As a matter of fact, it is too perfect, for after one stays there a long while it is essential to health to have a change of scene. I have a friend who can stand it for about three years on a stretch, but unless he comes to the United States to recruit at the end of that time he becomes a physical wreck. He finds that a sojourn in the United States of a month or so will get him in shape again, and he is in trim to endure the islands for another period. Of course this doesn't apply to the natives, who, being used to the country, never find it necessary to change. Still they are an indolent, lazy race, and chiefly from climatic causes."—Washington Post.

GATLING'S NEW GUN.

HUGE WEAPON INVENTED BY THE FAMOUS DOCTOR.

It is an Eight Inch Rifle Forged of Solid Steel and Mandreled—Will Be Rifled at Washington—Cheaper to Build Than the Old Guns.

The inventor of the gatling gun, Dr. Richard J. Gatling, will soon ship to Washington a new eight inch gun which he has been making by a new process, of which he expects great things.

In making this great engine of war the old method of "building up" a gun by jackets has been abandoned. The immense barrel has been cast in one piece of steel and mandreled and then rebarreled. The gun will be rifled in Washington. The process of forging the interior will be supervised by Dr. Gatling personally. Speaking of the built up gun, Dr. Gatling said:

"For 40 years big guns have been made of scores and scores of pieces. First the inner tube has been cast—a mere weak shell. To strengthen this, section after section of steel has been built up around it. Now, when these sections are heated by firing they of course expand and the tube elongates. I have known guns to open up cracks between the sections large enough to allow half dollars to be slipped in. After this the tube curves downward and the gun is useless. The old style of gun could not stand 20 rounds in action, and I do not believe one exists that could be fired 12 times in quick succession without being rendered useless. Now, when a gun costs $100,000 it is pretty expensive shooting if it can only be fired such a limited number of times. I believe the new gun will outlast the old ones for three or four times the number of discharges at least. If not fired too rapidly, 100 rounds may easily be discharged from the mandreled gun.

"Then, too, the cost is a considerable item. We can build two and perhaps three guns on the new plan for what one could be built before, and what is more important in an emergency, they can be built in a quarter of the time. The old plan was unmechanical and unscientific. It was the best that could be done 40 years ago, but is away out of date now. When steel could only be made in small crucibles, they were obliged to build up the guns, but now it is different. The casting is done with a rotary flow of metal to give the barrel a rope-like consistency, and with the alloys now known the cast metal can be made as strong as if it were welded. England has given up the built up gun and is now experimenting with a wound wire method. The mandrel is far ahead of this, however."

Dr. Gatling is a native of North Carolina. He has lived in Cleveland many years. He is a medical man, but for years has devoted his attention to mechanics and gunmaking. In manners he is mild and in disposition kind. He says the terrible scenes of the civil war led him to devise the gatling gun in the interest of humanity, and he believes it has done much to prevent bloodshed. "Only recently," said Dr. Gatling, "General Miles told me of an experience on the frontier—in Utah, I believe it was. A certain chief threatened to create a disturbance, and he had braves enough on the warpath to do a great deal of damage. Under a flag of truce General Miles got him to come to his camp and see his power. One of the battery of gatlings was charged and turned on a distant tree. After about 800 shots had been fired the chief, whose name was Crow Day, threw up his hands and left. He reported that the white man had 'devil guns,' and straightway he and his braves picked up their blankets and walked. The chief never stopped to see whether the tree had been hit or not."

Speaking further of that invention he said that his idea was that if a gun could be made with which one man might do the work of 100, then 99 would be spared the horrors of camp hospital and battlefield.

"My early difficulties were many," he said. "I made my plans easily enough and finally had a battery of six guns built. When these guns were nearly completed and all paid for, some one—I doubt not a scoundrel of a rebel spy—set fire to the factory, and they were destroyed. I went to work again, and a battery of 13 guns was made in Cincinnati and sent to Washington as soon as completed. Here there were more troubles. General Ripley, the chief of ordnance, would have none of my gun. Finally my agent started back west, but he met General Butler, who was on his way to the James river, and exhibited the battery to him. He was most enthusiastic, and purchased 12 guns and carriages and 1,000 rounds of ammunition for each for $12,000."—New York World.

WAS AFTER THE MAYOR

Doctor Huston Preached a Fiery Sermon

SCORING THE CITY GOVERNMENT

While Loud Amens Came From All Parts of the First M. E. Church—Doctor Taggart Also Touched Upon That Interesting Subject—In Other Churches.

At the First M. E. Church last night Dr. J. M. Huston took as his subject "The Devil Let Loose in East Liverpool," and the scoring he gave the city Administration was such as to excite the greatest of interest and was the talk of the town today. He began with Paul in Ephesus and said: "I would like to see Paul have hold of a man like the mayor of East Liverpool. Wouldn't he make the fur fly?" Then he pointed out the influence of the whisky ring on the politics of the city, showing that a saloon keeper had laughed at a well known church man and told him it was folly for the Christian element to fight them at the polls. Doctor Huston made some very serious charges against city officials, not designating them by name, but calling their office, so that no one in the congregation misunderstood him. It was a powerful sermon, and by it the gentleman plainly showed his congregation that he did not believe they should support A. V. Gilbert for mayor.

BEAUTIFUL SINGING

Was the Feature of the First Presbyterian Meeting.

The beautiful singing of Mr. and Miss Yarnell was the leading feature at the services held in the First Presbyterian church yesterday, although Dr. John Lloyd Lee delivered sermons of unusual merit. The attendance at each service was very large, and last night the auditorium, lecture room and aisles were crowded. It is estimated that fully 1500 persons were there.

Nothing but praises could be heard for Mr. and Miss Yarnell. Although not professional singers and only here at the earnest solicitation of Doctor Lee, it seldom happens that such music has been heard in the city. While they sang, that great congregation was silent, no sound breaking the stillness but the magnificent voices of father and daughter.

The greater part of the audience remained for the after meeting, and it was productive of much good. Mr. Yarnell's address was highly appreciated.

RUM AND RUIN

Is What Doctor Taggart Said of the Administration.

At the First U. P. church Doctor Taggart preached last night on the "Valley of Decision," and had something to say concerning the present state of affairs. "It depends on the people," he said, "whether the man nominated yesterday for mayor will be re-elected to continue the same rule of rum and ruin."

Christian Church.

Mrs. J. C. Stone, an intimate friend and coworker with Frances Willard, delivered a splendid address along the line of temperance at the Christian church last night. She stated that there were 250,000 saloons in the United States and 18,000,000 of tipplers and toppers. This is offset by 50,000 preachers and 21,000,000 of church members. The churches of the United States represent $10,000,000 for every one million of the liquor traffic. Six million five hundred thousand voters in the churches. "Men, you have the weapons and power in your hands. If you are too cowardly to use them, then, in the name of God and humanity, climb into the garret and hide, leaving your weapons with Betsey, and she will tackle the bear and slay him, and you can then come down and rejoice in the fact that you are safe and the monster dead." Space forbids a full report. The entire address was bristling with good points, showing that God wins contests against great majorities, citing the case of Gideon with his 300 men, after 31,700 had deserted him, defeating an enemy of 187,000. God promised victory and his promises never fail. Mrs. Stone speaks at the Christian church Wednesday and Thursday of this week. Don't miss the rich treat offered you.

A PATHETIC LETTER.

Mrs. M. J. Tams of Philadelphia recently received a most pathetic letter from her son, William H. Tams, who was on his way at the time of the writing to a Spanish prison, probably the famous and foul penal colony at Ceuta, Africa. Young Tams left Philadelphia on board a filibustering expedition several months ago and joined the rebel army immediately upon his arrival in Cuba. The letter was as follows:

Lisbon, Feb. 10.
DEAR MOTHER—I write to let you know that I am still alive but not in good health. I am going to a Spanish prison with a broken arm and leg which I had when captured in Cuba. I do not know whether I will ever come back, but I guess I will come out all right.

There are several of us, and we have a plan to escape in Europe, and the man who takes this letter is to help us as much as possible, and I may be back in the States some time within the year if I have luck, which I hope I will.

We are in bad shape and were caught with arms in our hands. There is no mercy shown us and probably will not be unless we have war, which I hope to see come. We are treated worse than slaves ever were. I will let you hear from me again as soon as possible.

All I had was taken away from me—some hundred dollars—but I think I will be able to recover it as soon as this trouble is over. I will have to close now to get this letter off. I cannot tell you where to write to me, but will let you know as soon as possible.

Mother, dear, I have gone through hell since Aug. 12, and if I ever live to see the States again I will never leave. Again I bid you all goodbye; probably for the last time. I send love to all. Goodbye. From your son,

—Philadelphia Press.

AN IOWAN'S LETTER.

Dill McCord Writes of the Hardships of Life on the Yukon.

There are now about 12 Eldora (Ia.) men in the Alaskan gold region. Dill McCord, who left home in December, writes under date of Feb. 13 as follows:

"I was in Lake Bennett two days, and it was very cold all the time. It was 30 degrees below zero or worse. I did not take my blankets down with me the last eight miles, as I expected to return to them at night, but I fell in with a fellow who said he had plenty of blankets for both. But when night came I came near freezing and got up at 1 o'clock and built a fire to keep warm.

"There is a good deal of sickness here, and every day we saw some poor fellow brought in on a hand sled to be buried or sent home to his people. I have seen six since I started to Lake Bennett. They have some sort of a spinal or spotted fever. At least they turn spotted after they die. I meet a good many men from Dawson, and they are most all going back, and some say a man earns every dollar he gets from that country. Only the best men and those best equipped ever go through the hardships. I think over three-fourths of the people have turned back since I came up here. Some take their goods 10 or 15 miles and then sell out for little or nothing."

—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

HIS HARD EXPERIENCE.

N. A. Perry of Nevada Who Now Has Little Use For the Klondike.

"As long as the poorhouse stands there is no excuse to start for the Yukon," said N. A. Perry of Nevada, who has recently been brought home, near Eldora, Ia., more dead than alive, and who is suffering from a physical condition from which he can never recover. Mr. Perry was seized with fever at Dawson, and his companions hauled him over the icy mountains on a hand sled.

He states that they passed several dead bodies, and one poor fellow high unto death begged for help, but the crowd passed on and left him. Perry had his fingers, toes and face frozen, but he made a find. He took up a claim, and dug about 16 feet and found a nugget worth about $120 in payment for all his suffering. He has no love for the golden country and says Iowa is good enough for him.—St. Paul Pioneer Press.

"Hawaii has an ideally lovely climate, but one gets extremely tired of its monotonous perfection," said Mr. J. B. Albright of California recently. "As a matter of fact, it is too perfect, for after one stays there a long while it is essential to health to have a change of scene. I have a friend who can stand it for about three years on a stretch, but unless he comes to the United States to recruit at the end of that time he becomes a physical wreck. GATLING'S NEW GUN.

HUGE WEAPON INVENTED BY THE FAMOUS DOCTOR.

It is an Eight Inch Rifle Forged of Solid Steel and Mandrel—Will Be Rifled at Washington—Cheaper to Build Than the Old Guns.

The inventor of the gatling gun, Dr. Richard J. Gatling, will soon ship to Washington a new eight inch gun which he has been making by a new process, of which he expects great things.

In making this great engine of war the old method of "building up" a gun by jackets has been abandoned. The immense barrel has been cast in one piece of steel and mandrel and then re-hotted. The gun will be rifled in Washington. The process of forging the interior will be supervised by Dr. Gatling personally. Speaking of the built up gun, Dr. Gatling said:

DETROIT, MICH., Feb. 14, 1895.

MY DEAR MR. CLEMENT:

After having examined with considerable care and tested in various ways the Clifford Piano at your warerooms, I am glad to be able to say that I am much pleased with it. I was particularly impressed with the evenness of the scale and the good quality of tone throughout. The action is also firm and elastic.

Yours truly,

LOCAL BREVITIES.

A moving belonging to an Italian family was sent to Wellsville this morning.

George Ashbaugh, of the West End pottery, left this morning for an eastern trip.

Two shanty boats which arrived Saturday have helped swell the population of Shantytown.

Saturday nearly 20 cars were loaded at the freight depot. This is the largest number loaded for some months.

It is understood that the milliners of the city will hold a meeting in the near future for the purpose of organizing.

Mr. and Miss Yarnell, who have been in the city several days, left this morning for their home in Ft. Wayne, Ind.

A fight attracted attention in Washington street last night because the contestants were two old men, both drunk.

A small son of Mr. and Mrs. Steinfield, of Walnut street, is ill with the measles. It was reported to the board of health.

It was necessary to use a piano at the First Presbyterian church last evening, an accident having rendered the organ useless.

The quarantine was raised yesterday from the residence of George Barnhart, in Third street. A small child had been ill with scarlet fever.

The Keystone State and Kanawha yesterday unloaded over 10,000 hoop-poles at the wharf. The Ben Hur put off a large amount of iron.

Some money changed hands on the result of the primaries, but the amount was not large. The mayoralty was, of course, the foundation for the largest number of wagers.

The remains of William Weissenberger, who died in Pittsburg Saturday evening, were brought to this place for burial this morning. Interment was made in Spring Grove cemetery.

James Mallen, of Ridgeway avenue, while descending the opera house stairs Saturday evening, slipped and fell to the bottom. His head was badly bruised. He was taken to his home in the patrol.

The scarcity of houses in the city continues, and those who are fortunate enough to have an abiding place are not giving way to others because they have no place to go. There will be very little April moving this year.

C. H. Blazer left on the morning train for Macount, Ill., called there by the death of his stepmother. The deceased will be remembered by many of our older citizens, having spent her early days here. She was a cousin of Hon. David Boyce.

Doctor Schaffer, president of the Pittsburg conference of the Methodist Protestant church, delivered two excellent sermons at the Methodist Protestant church yesterday. He also spoke at the afternoon meeting of the Young Men's Christian association.

Saturday evening, immediately after the performance at the opera house, Manager Norris gave the leading lady a telegram announcing the death of her father in a Pennsylvania town. She fainted, but was soon revived, and left for her home early yesterday morning.

The grading of the Front street sewer was completed Saturday and the old pipe was laid on the bank. A telephone message was sent to Sanitary Officer Burgess this morning asking that the pipe be removed, as the odor was very offensive. The matter was placed in the hands of Engineer George.

When the ballots were counted Saturday night the judges of each precinct had occasion to throw a number out of the count. At one precinct the judges threw out four votes because the names were scratched out and marked with a circle. Only those marked with an X were counted. In one precinct a vote was counted when the names were scratched with a line.

AGAINST GILBERT.

And These Are Tried and True Republicans.

EDITOR NEWS REVIEW:—We deem A. V. Gilbert the nominee of the whisky ring and the leader of the evil element of East Liverpool. We do not deem him the leader of the Republican party. We are fully acquainted with the means and measures, reeking with evil, by and through which his nomination was effected. He received 835 ballots. There were 1,216 ballots cast against him. The UNITED whisky ring and lawless element in our city defeated the DISUNITED forces favoring clean government, law and order. We are interested in the material interests of East Liverpool. We wish this city to prosper from every standpoint. We believe that A. V. Gilbert represents a following which is in direct opposition and inimical to the best interest of this city; and thus believing, we will cast our ballots, as good, and conservative and law-abiding citizens, in favor of Charles F. Bough, and ask all good citizens, irrespective of party, to do battle with us against the enemies of this municipality.

MANY REPUBLICANS.

Too Young to Talk So.

We have learned to expect it from many of the married women and from some of the bachelor maids. But out of the lips of a mere lassie, gently reared, a girl still living at home with her mother, skepticism gives one a shock, declares a writer in the New York Press.

A woman of fashion in a checked dress and a great dahlia colored hat, accompanied by a man in modish garments, was tripping along Fifth avenue. She was chatting with marked animation and he was laughing flatteringly. The attention of the passersby was attracted by the happy couple.

Behind the pair chanced to walk a lassie—the one yet living at home with mamma—and an older woman, a friend of mamma. The lassie spied the mondaine in checks and dahlia velvet on ahead and puckered her brow, saying: "Oh, I know that woman—have seen her often at Newport. She is dreadful rich. Now, I remember. She is Mrs. Morris Blankly."

The friend of mamma was interested. She asked:

"And is the attentive man with Mrs. Blankly her husband?"

The lassie shrugged her shoulders and scorned the very idea.

"Ridiculous," she replied. "You dear, old fashioned thing, don't you know that women's husbands never laugh in that good tempered way when they are with their wives."

Enjoyment of the Mayflower.

A curious bill to restrict and localize enjoyment of the mayflower, or trailing arbutus, a Plymouth county plant of some fame, has been introduced into the Massachusetts legislature. The bill provides that "no person, except a citizen or real estate owner, shall gather or disturb the plant of the trailing arbutus or send the flower or plant from the town in which it grows under penalty of $30 fine or 20 days' imprisonment in the house of correction." The protection of the mayflower is not sought by the bill, for the folks in the towns where it grows can pluck it to the extent of the crop. Evidently pot hunting outsiders have been invading Plymouth county in the mayflower season, carrying off the flowers and selling them. But why should Plymouth county repine? She should think of the pleasure which the exported arbutus gives to outsiders. Some of it even reaches New York, or used to reach it. Perhaps the Society of Mayflower Descendants is trying to control the whole output. Even under the best conditions there can't be nearly enough mayflowers to give each descendant one.—New York Sun.

ENGLAND PREPARING.

Almost as Busy as We Getting Ready For War.

A BIG WAR FLEET ASSEMBLED.

Large Number of Ships Gathered In Chinese Waters—The British Said to Buying All the Coal Possible, Paying Big Prices.

TACOMA, March 21.—Officers of the Northern Pacific steamship Victoria, which have arrived from China and Japan, report that the British government is massing a very powerful fleet of warships in Chinese waters, and that the British are buying all the coal coming to those waters for their men-of-war, and so anxious are they to get it that they send vessels to sea and there hail the coalers and bargain for their cargoes, paying gilded prices if necessary.

The British are said to be buying all the available coal from the Suez canal to the northern coast of Siberia, as they do not want to use Japanese coal.

LONDON, March 21.—One of the great London editors, who has been talking with the leaders of both great parties with members of the government on the present situation, is quoted as saying that the prospect of war with France or with Russia, or with both combined, is so serious that the British press from patriotic motives are restraining public sentiment and are trying to repress agitation.

It is certain that Great Britain is making almost as urgent preparations for war as the United States, although matters are kept more quiet.

GOLD PROSPECTING SUCCESSFUL.

A Returned Klondiker So Reports—Says Food Is Plenty.

SEATTLE, Wash., March 21.—W. G. Wallace of Saginaw, Mich., has arrived here from Dawson City, which place he left Feb. 15.

Concerning matters at Dawson City, Mr. Wallace says that stampedes to the several creeks are of frequent occurrence. The prospecting work done this winter is turning out well.

"There is no reason," said he, "why the country west of the Yukon should not prove to be as rich as that on the east side. The west is practically an unexplored district. Discoveries have been made on Swedish creek that promise well."

"There need be no anxiety about the food situation. The companies that are operating boats will furnish ample supplies, besides, nearly everyone who goes in over the passes calculates on carrying a year's supply with him."

Mr. Wallace is credited with having brought out $45,000 in drafts with him.

KILLED BY WHITE MEN.

Negro and White Wife Murdered—One Assailant Dead.

MULKOGEE, I. T., March 21.—At Wy-bark, five miles north of here, the house of Ed Chalmers, a negro, who recently married a white woman, was attacked by six white men who disliked the union. A door of their cabin was broken in and both the negro and his wife were shot down, but not before Chalmers had put up a good fight. The woman was killed outright and Chalmers died later.

The body of one Matthews, an aged white man, who lived at Gibson station, was found killed near the Chalmers' cabin, with a bullet. Matthews answers the description given by Chalmers before he died of one of his assailants.

PINGREE'S SPECIAL SESSION.

He Denies Charges Made Against Him by Senator McMillan.

DETROIT, March 21.—Governor Pingree has replied to Senator McMillan's letter in reference to increased taxation of railroads and like corporations, which is to be the subject to be acted upon by the legislature in the special session which begins this week. The governor denies that he is waging a destructive warfare on certain forms of investment.

In response to Senator McMillan's suggestion for the appointment of a commission to investigate these subjects, the governor says McMillan is merely trying to gain time until the people's minds are diverted.

Mrs. Ballington Booth Spoke.

TRENTON, March 21.—Mrs. Ballington Booth spoke Sunday afternoon to about 400 state prison convicts in the prison chapel. She has established a league among the prisoners. Commander Booth spoke at Young Men's Christian Association hall.

Funeral of Mrs. Thurston.

OMAHA, March 21.—The body of the late Mrs. John M. Thurston was followed to the grave by a tremendous concourse of people Sunday afternoon. All Omaha was out and many from Nebraska and other states were in attendance. Rev. Dr. Thomas J. Mackay presided over the rendition of the Protestant Episcopal ritual for the burial of the dead.

The Teuton Discards the Pipe.

The Teuton is apparently abandoning the pipe and cigar in favor of becoming a cigarette fiend. In 1892 Germany manufactured 152,000,000 cigarettes. In 1897 the figures reached 600,000,000, which were doubled in 1897. Dealers do not complain, as cigarettes are more profitable than cigars.—Special Cable to New York Sun.

WAR MESSENGER PIGEONS.

Plans Made to Establish a Service From Key West to the Ships.

An unmistakable sign of the thoroughness of the preparations for war with Spain, it is claimed by naval officers, is the placing by Secretary of the Navy Long of a large order for quills for the Key West naval station. The quills were designed by Professor Marion of the United States Naval academy and are for use in connection with a messenger pigeon service to be established at Key West. The quills are attached to the birds and are to contain messages.

The pigeons are to be put on the ships of Admiral Sicard's squadron and established in a cove at the naval station, so that they can be used to carry messages back and forth to the ships when they are at sea off the coast of Cuba. These birds, as has already been established by experiments, can carry messages faster than the speediest dispatch vessel. One carried a message recently from the battleship Texas to a shore station, a distance of more than 400 miles.

The ships on duty in the gulf of Mexico and the Caribbean sea will by this means be brought into telegraphic communication with Washington through the naval station at Key West. The carrier pigeons would enable ships on blockade and scouting duty to keep their stations, report movements of the enemy and follow him up. Without such messengers ships might be compelled to leave their stations and run for port in order to communicate important news.—New York Journal.

VALUE OF HER THUMB.

Inez Carusi, the Harpist, Claims It Is Worth $75,000.

Inez Carusi, one of the greatest of harpists, has lost the use of her thumb, and has valued it at $75,000 in the suit she has brought against the Metropolitan Railway company of New York. A street car gave a jerk while she was standing on the rear platform and she was pitched out on the track in front of a car coming in the opposite direction. Her head was cut open in several places, her jaw was broken, front teeth broken and there were many injuries to her body.

Most serious was the injury to her thumb, which will prevent her from ever again playing a harp. The right thumb was broken in two places. The tip of the thumb was pierced; the hand was pierced between the forefinger and second finger, and her wrist was injured badly. Now all her power is gone.

For such a small thing as a thumb a woman has lost her profession. That is why $75,000 is asked of the Metropolitan Railroad company.—Chicago Times-Herald.

CARMEN SYLVA'S DEGREE.

University of Budapest Enrolls the Roumanian Queen as a Doctor of Laws.

Carmen Sylva, as Queen Elizabeth of Roumania is known to the literary world, recently received her diploma constituting her a doctor of letters and honorary member of the University of Budapest.

The diploma is a veritable work of art and is inclosed in an artistic case of great intrinsic value. Accompanying it is a letter from the council of the university written in four languages, Hungarian, Wallachian, Latin and French.—New York Journal.

Kansas Ships Logs to England.

A carload of walnut logs has been shipped from Topeka over the Missouri Pacific, bound for Liverpool. Several more carloads are to follow. The logs are about 12 feet long and some of them 37 inches thick. They are all out in Shawnee county and will be used in England for choice finishing. The logs are not cured here, but will be sawed up and cured after they arrive in Liverpool. Kansas is not called a lumber state, although it furnishes the finest walnut that can be had anywhere, but it is fast becoming scarce. In the early days many houses were built in Topeka and elsewhere that were finished inside with walnut.—Topeka State Journal.

Superfluons.

Strikers Willing to Compromise.

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., March 21.—The ninth week of the struggle between capital and labor in this city finds the situation practically unchanged except that the operatives have conceded that they might be willing to go back to work under a reduction of 5 per cent instead of 10.

Lake Traffic Opened.

DETROIT, March 21.—Navigation has begun on Lake St. Clair and the St. Clair and Detroit rivers. Tonight the steamer City of Detroit will leave for Cleveland on the first trip of the season.

Troops Preparing to Move.

The Keystone State and Kanawha yesterday unloaded over 10,000 hoop-poles at the wharf. The Ben Hur put off a large amount of iron.

Some money changed hands on the result of the primaries, but the amount was not large. The mayorality was, of course, the foundation for the largest number of wagers.

The remains of William Weissenberger, who died in Pittsburg Saturday evening, were brought to this place for burial this morning. Interment was made in Spring Grove cemetery.

James Mallen, of Ridgeway avenue, while descending the opera house stairs Saturday evening, slipped and fell to the bottom. His head was badly bruised. He was taken to his home in the patrol.

The scarcity of houses in the city continues, and those who are fortunate enough to have an abiding place are not giving way to others because they have no place to go. There will be very little April moving this year.

C. H. Blazer left on the morning train for Macount, Ill., called there by the death of his stepmother. The deceased will be remembered by many of our older citizens, having spent her early days here. She was a cousin of Hon. David Boyce.

Doctor Schaffer, president of the Pittsburg conference of the Methodist Protestant church, delivered two excellent sermons at the Methodist Protestant church yesterday. He also spoke at the afternoon meeting of the Young Men's Christian association.

Saturday evening, immediately after the performance at the opera house, Manager Norris gave the leading lady a telegram announcing the death of her father in a Pennsylvania town. She fainted, but was soon revived, and left for her home early yesterday morning.

The grading of the Front street sewer was completed Saturday and the old pipe was laid on the bank. A telephone message was sent to Sanitary Officer Burgess this morning asking that the pipe be removed, as the odor was very offensive. The matter was placed in the hands of Engineer George.

When the ballots were counted Saturday night the judges of each precinct had occasion to throw a number out of the count. At one precinct the judges threw out four votes because the names were scratched out and marked with a circle. Only those marked with an X were counted. In one precinct a vote was counted when the names were scratched with a line.

AGAINST GILBERT.

And These Are Tried and True Republicans.

EDITOR NEWS REVIEW:—We deem A. V. Gilbert the nominee of the whisky ring and the leader of the evil element of East Liverpool. We do not deem him the leader of the Republican party. We are fully acquainted with the means and measures, reeking with evil, by and through which his nomination was effected. He received 835 ballots. There were 1,216 ballots cast against him. The UNITED whisky ring and lawless element in our city defeated the DISUNITED forces favoring clean government, law and order. We are interested in the material interests of East Liverpool. We wish this city to prosper from every standpoint. We believe that A. V. Gilbert represents a following which is in direct opposition and inimical to the best interest of this city; and thus believing, we will cast our ballots, as good, and conservative and law-abiding citizens, in favor of Charles F. Bough, and ask all good citizens, irrespective of party, to do battle with us against the enemies of this municipality.

MANY REPUBLICANS.

Too Young to Talk So.

We have learned to expect it from many of the married women and from some of the bachelor maids. But out of the lips of a mere lassie, gently reared, a girl still living at home with her mother, skepticism gives one a shock, declares a writer in the New York Press.

A woman of fashion in a checked dress and a great dahlia colored hat, accompanied by a man in modish garments, was tripping along Fifth avenue. She was chatting with marked animation and he was laughing flatteringly. The attention of the passersby was attracted by the happy couple.

Behind the pair chanced to walk a lassie—the one yet living at home with mamma—and an older woman, a friend of mamma. The lassie spied the mondaine in checks and dahlia velvet on ahead and puckered her brow, saying: "Oh, I know that woman—have seen her often at Newport. She is dreadful rich. Now, I remember. She is Mrs. Morris Blankly."

The friend of mamma was interested. She asked:

"And is the attentive man with Mrs. Blankly her husband?"

The lassie shrugged her shoulders and scorned the very idea.

"Ridiculous," she replied. "You dear, old fashioned thing, don't you know that women's husbands never laugh in that good tempered way when they are with their wives."

Enjoyment of the Mayflower.

A curious bill to restrict and localize enjoyment of the mayflower, or trailing arbutus, a Plymouth county plant of some fame, has been introduced into the Massachusetts legislature. The bill provides that "no person, except a citizen or real estate owner, shall gather or disturb the plant of the trailing arbutus or send the flower or plant from the town in which it grows under penalty of $30 fine or 20 days' imprisonment in the house of correction." The protection of the mayflower is not sought by the bill, for the folks in the towns where it grows can pluck it to the extent of the crop. Evidently pot hunting outsiders have been invading Plymouth county in the mayflower season, carrying off the flowers and selling them. But why should Plymouth county renege? She should think of the pleasure which the exported arbutus gives to outsiders. Some of it even reaches New York, or used to reach it. Perhaps the Society of Mayflower Descendants is trying to control the whole output. Even under the best conditions there can't be nearly enough mayflowers to give each descendant one.—New York Sun.

Castles In Spain.

Spain is in better shape for an auction than for war.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

ENGLAND PREPARING.

Almost as Busy as We Getting Ready For War.

A BIG WAR FLEET ASSEMBLED.

Large Number of Ships Gathered In Chinese Waters—The British Said to Buying All the Coal Possible, Paying Big Prices.

TACOMA, March 21.—Officers of the Northern Pacific steamship Victoria, which have arrived from China and Japan, report that the British government is massing a very powerful fleet of warships in Chinese waters, and that the British are buying all the coal coming to those waters for their men-of-war, and so anxious are they to get it that they send vessels to sea and there hail the coalers and bargain for their cargoes, paying gilded prices if necessary.

The British are said to be buying all the available coal from the Suez canal to the northern coast of Siberia, as they do not want to use Japanese coal.

LONDON, March 21.—One of the great London editors, who has been talking with the leaders of both great parties with members of the government on the present situation, is quoted as saying that the prospect of war with France or with Russia, or with both combined, is so serious that the British press from patriotic motives are restricting public sentiment and are trying to repress agitation.

It is certain that Great Britain is making almost as urgent preparations for war as the United States, although matters are kept more quiet.

GOLD PROSPECTING SUCCESSFUL.

A Returned Klondiker So Reports—Says Food Is Plenty.

Concerning matters at Dawson City, Mr. Wallace says that stampedes to the several creeks are of frequent occurrence. The prospecting work done this winter is turning out well.

"There is no reason," said he, "why the country west of the Yukon should not prove to be as rich as that on the east side. The west is practically an unexplored district. Discoveries have been made on Swedish creek that promise well.

"There need be no anxiety about the food situation. The companies that are operating boats will furnish ample supplies, besides, nearly everyone who goes in over the passes calculates on carrying a year's supply with him."

Mr. Wallace is credited with having brought out $45,000 in drafts with him.

KILLED BY WHITE MEN.

Negro and White Wife Murdered—One Assailant Dead.

MULKOGEE, I. T., March 21.—At Wybark, five miles north of here, the house of Ed Chalmers, a negro, who recently married a white woman, was attacked by six white men who disliked the union. A door of their cabin was broken in and both the negro and his wife were shot down, but not before Chalmers had put up a good fight. The woman was killed outright and Chalmers died later.

The body of one Matthews, an aged white man, who lived at Gibson station, was found killed near the Chalmers' cabin, with a bullet. Matthews answers the description given by Chalmers before he died of one of his assailants.

PINGREE'S SPECIAL SESSION.

He Denies Charges Made Against Him by Senator McMillan.

DETROIT, March 21.—Governor Pingree has replied to Senator McMillan's letter in reference to increased taxation of railroads and like corporations, which is to be the subject to be acted upon by the legislature in the special session which begins this week. The governor denies that he is waging a destructive warfare on certain forms of investment.

In response to Senator McMillan's suggestion for the appointment of a commission to investigate these subjects, the governor says McMillan is merely trying to gain time until the people's minds are diverted.

Mrs. Ballington Booth Spoke.

TRENTON, March 21.—Mrs. Ballington Booth spoke Sunday afternoon to about 400 state prison convicts in the prison chapel. She has established a league among the prisoners. Commander Booth spoke at Young Men's Christian Association hall.

Funeral of Mrs. Thurston.

OMAHA, March 21.—The body of the late Mrs. John M. Thurston was followed to the grave by a tremendous concourse of people Sunday afternoon. All Omaha was out and many from Nebraska and other states were in attendance. Rev. Dr. Thomas J. Mackay presided over the rendition of the Protestant Episcopal ritual for the burial of the dead.

The Teuton Discards the Pipe.

The Teuton is apparently abandoning the pipe and cigar in favor of becoming a cigarette fiend. In 1892 Germany manufactured 152,000,000 cigarettes. In 1897 the figures reached 302,000,000, which were doubled in 1897. Dealers do not complain, as cigarettes are more profitable than cigars.—Special Cable to New York Sun.

WAR MESSENGER PIGEONS.

Plans Made to Establish a Service From Key West to the Ships.

An unmistakable sign of the thoroughness of the preparations for war with Spain, it is claimed by naval officers, is the placing by Secretary of the Navy Long of a large order for quills for the Key West naval station. The quills were designed by Professor Marion of the United States Naval academy and are for use in connection with a messenger pigeon service to be established at Key West. The quills are attached to the birds and are to contain messages.

The pigeons are to be put on the ships of Admiral Sicard's squadron and established in a cove at the naval station, so that they can be used to carry messages back and forth to the ships when they are at sea off the coast of Cuba. These birds, as has already been established by experiments, can carry messages faster than the speediest dispatch vessel. One carried a message recently from the battleship Texas to a shore station, a distance of more than 400 miles.

The ships on duty in the gulf of Mexico and the Caribbean sea will by this means be brought into telegraphic communication with Washington through the naval station at Key West. The carrier pigeons would enable ships on blockade and scouting duty to keep their stations, report movements of the enemy and follow him up. Without such messengers ships might be compelled to leave their stations and run for port in order to communicate important news.—New York Journal.

VALUE OF HER THUMB.

Inez Carusi, the Harpist, Claims It Is Worth $75,000.

Inez Carusi, one of the greatest of harpists, has lost the use of her thumb, and has valued it at $75,000 in the suit she has brought against the Metropolitan Railway company of New York. A street car gave a jerk while she was standing on the rear platform and she was pitched out on the track in front of a car coming in the opposite direction. Her head was cut open in several places, her jaw was broken, front teeth broken and there were many injuries to her body.

Most serious was the injury to her thumb, which will prevent her from ever again playing a harp. The right thumb was broken in two places. The tip of the thumb was pierced; the hand was pierced between the forefinger and second finger, and her wrist was injured badly. Now all her power is gone.

For such a small thing as a thumb a woman has lost her profession. That is why $75,000 is asked of the Metropolitan Railroad company.—Chicago Times-Herald.

CARMEN SYLVA'S DEGREE.

University of Budapest Enrolls the Roumanian Queen as a Doctor of Laws.

Carmen Sylva, as Queen Elizabeth of Roumania is known to the literary world, recently received her diploma constituting her a doctor of letters and honorary member of the University of Budapest.

The diploma is a veritable work of art and is inclosed in an artistic case of great intrinsic value. Accompanying it is a letter from the council of the university written in four languages, Hungarian, Wallachian, Latin and French.—New York Journal.

Kansas Ships Logs to England.

A carload of walnut logs has been shipped from Topeka over the Missouri Pacific, bound for Liverpool. Several more carloads are to follow. The logs are about 12 feet long and some of them 37 inches thick. They are all out in Shawnee county and will be used in England for choice finishing. The logs are not cured here, but will be sawed up and cured after they arrive in Liverpool. Kansas is not called a lumber state, although it furnishes the finest walnut that can be had anywhere, but it is fast becoming scarce. In the early days many houses were built in Topeka and elsewhere that were finished inside with walnut.—Topeka State Journal.

Superfluos.

Strikers Willing to Compromise.

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., March 21.—The ninth week of the struggle between capital and labor in this city finds the situation practically unchanged except that the operatives have conceded that they might be willing to go back to work under a reduction of 5 per cent instead of 10.

Lake Traffic Opened.

DETROIT, March 21.—Navigation has begun on Lake St. Clair and the St. Clair and Detroit rivers. Tonight the steamer City of Detroit will leave for Cleveland on the first trip of the season.

Troops Preparing to Move.

BURLINGTON, Vt., March 21.—Orders which the officers do not make public, have been received at Fort Ethan Allen yesterday from Washington and preparations for moving were begun.
